2-House Group For Increase

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—More money for veterans taking on-the-job training was agreed upon Thursday by Senate and House conferees.

They fixed ceilings of $210 a month for veterans with no dependents, $270 for those with one dependent and $290 for those with two or more.

The ceilings are on the combined income of the veteran. For example, a veteran with no dependents, who is paid less than $210 a month by his employer, would be entitled to a subsistence allowance from the Veterans' Administration. However, his combined wages and allowances could not exceed $210.

Thursday's agreement is subject to approval by both houses. Chairman Rogers, Republican, Massachusetts, of the House Veterans' Affairs Committee said a House vote will be taken Monday. The legislation would go into effect April 1.

Subsistence payments to on-the-job trainees could not exceed $65 a month for veterans having no dependents, and $90 for those with dependents.

Veterans still would be limited to two years of on-the-job training. Overtime pay would not be included in computing eligibility for subsistence allowances.

Veterans taking on-the-job training and going to school part of the time would share in the subsistence increases voted last month for full time college students.

Rivers Plans 'Dinner'; Invites Both Factions

Democratic National Committeeman E. D. Rivers Thursday announced plans for a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Atlanta "sometime this month" and issued a blanket invitation to "those who are unashamed to stand up and be counted for the party of Jefferson and Jackson."

Rivers last week postponed a Jefferson-Jackson dinner scheduled for March 9 after the dinner chairman, W. T. Dean, of Conyers, resigned. Dean resigned because his faction lost control of the State Democratic Party when the State Supreme Court ruled in favor of Herman Talmadge's forces following party litigation. He also was displeased with President Truman's civil rights proposals.

Rivers is a leader in Acting Gov. Thompson's faction. However, he said all "who wish to continue to fight under the regular National Democratic Party banner will be invited to attend" the dinner.

Date of the dinner, place and speakers will be announced when a dinner headquarters is set up, Rivers said.

His announcement follows:

"There will be at least one Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Georgia this month. Those Democrats who wish to continue to fight under the regular National Democratic Party banner will be invited to attend, regardless of what faction of the Party they belong to now, heretofore or hereafter. The yardstick is their support of the nominees of the National Party; the judge is their own conscience.

"Those who are unashamed and unafraid to stand up and be counted for the Party of Jefferson and of Jackson will be given an opportunity to contribute, to meet, to dine in the name and under the flag of the Party, and rededicate themselves to the cause of the common man.

"In this day when the ramparts of the Party are being stormed front and rear by the reactionaries of the right and the dreamers of the left, I choose to function as National Committeeman of the Party and give opportunity to others to do so.

"If, as pictured editorially this week by one of our daily papers, the National Committeeman stands alone in Georgia on the burning deck of the Party ship, let it be remembered that he chooses to remain there fighting the fires of passion that threaten to consume her rather than join with, or give

Gun Duel Jails GBI Investigator's Slayer

Four running gun battles over Georgia highways were climaxed Thursday with 50 law-enforcement officers and 75 armed citizens, bloodhounds and four airplane spotters capturing the slayer of a Georgia Bureau of Investigation agent.

The confessed gunman, identified as Spence Edwards, 21, had escaped from a Murfreesboro, Tenn., chain gang Feb. 24 under a hail of gunfire laid down by his brother, Alfred Edwards, 26. The brothers were seized together in the last of a series of gun duels Thursday. With them through all the gun battles were Spence's wife, Marie, 20, and Evelyn Lax, 20. The quartet was taken to Tattnall State Prison at Reidsville for safe keeping.

The bizarre highway shootings began Wednesday night in Swainsboro when GBI Agent Garland Fields was killed near a restaurant after asking Spence why he wanted to sell a rifle.

Leaping into a car with his three companions, Spence escaped from the first gun bout. The quartet a few minutes later held up a Swainsboro businessman, R. J. Fowler, seized his 1947 Ford, and robbed him of $20.

While State Patrolmen and county officers hastily threw up road blocks, the two couples drew heavy gunfire from two State Patrolmen between Swainsboro and Millen. The running gun battle covered a 10-mile stretch until the Troopers ran out of ammunition.

State Trooper J. N. Beatty fatally shot a Negro at Lula, 12 miles from Gainesville, in self-defense when the man violently resisted arrest, Hall County Sheriff W. A. Crow reported Thursday. Beatty, with Trooper W. D. Greer, went to investigate "a man acting strangely" near Lula. They arrested the man and placed him in the patrol car. He started a scuffle with Trooper Beatty who was forced to shoot, the Sheriff said. No case was made against the Trooper.

When their stolen Ford crashed into a house near the corner of Bullock County where they were later captured, the four ran to another house and commandeered a Buick at gunpoint from a Negro woman school teacher.

Another running gun battle with State Patrolmen resulted in the two couples abandoning the Buick and fleeing into a 50-acre wooded tract.

Aided by airplane spotters and bloodhounds, State Patrolmen, GBI agents and county law enforcement officers laid down a gun barrage that wounded Alfred in the arm and led to the surrender of the quartet.

The capture took place 75 miles north of Swainsboro. The closest settlement was Dye's Crossing, near Augusta.

Spence confessed shooting GBI Agent Fields because of "fear," officers said, when Fields questioned him about the rifle. All four held are from Murfreesboro.

Funeral services for GBI Agent Fields will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the Swainsboro Methodist Church with the Rev. Byron Kennerly, Pastor of the Swainsboro Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Henry Brooks, Pastor of the Swainsboro Methodist Church.

Mr. Fields was born and reared in Swainsboro, the son of Frank Fields and the late Annie Peebles Fields. Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Lyneath Warren, of Stillmore; two young daughters, Loretta and Jane; and two brothers, Arlie Fields, of Savannah, and Bill Fields, of North Augusta.

Honorary pallbearers will be members of the Georgia State Patrol and the Georgia Bureau of Investigation.

CRIMSON NAIL POLISH LEADS POLICE TO SUSPECT IN RACE TRACK KILLING

BERKELEY, Cal., March 4—(AP)—The mysterious race track death of a 54-year-old widow was labeled as homicide Thursday by authorities. Crimson nail polish and a middle-aged house painter drew official attention.

The body of Mrs. Hildur Smyth, wrapped in an expensive fur coat, was found crumpled into a parking area at Golden Gate Fields Race Track in adjoining Albany Tuesday night.

The body bore no marks of death. But examination of her stomach disclosed traces of collodion—common ingredient of nail polish and certain lacquers.

Held without charge for investigation Friday was Roy Anderson Reynolds, a 45-year-old house painter. Police said he had made an engagement with the woman through a "Lonely Heart" bureau. He denied keeping it.

Albany Police Chief Stanley Williams said the man's shoes fit casts of footprints taken at the scene.

On one of Reynolds' shoes was a red stain, Williams said. On the cowling of his car was another.

Mrs. Smyth recently had sold her home for $6,250.

HouseGroupsAsk A 'Showdown'

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—The Commerce Department refused Thursday night to turn over its loyalty check papers on Dr. Edward U. Condon and the House Un-American Activities Committee announced plans for a public "showdown."

Dr. Condon is the head of the National Bureau of Standards. He had been described by an Un-American Activities Subcommittee Monday as an official who "knowingly or unknowingly" mingled with alleged Russian spies.

Secretary of Commerce Harriman wrote the House group Thursday night that he would not accede to its demand for the files of a Department Board which cleared Dr. Condon in a loyalty check.

Harriman did say that in view of the public interest in the matter "I believe that it would be desirable to have the case reviewed by the Loyalty Review Board of the Civil Service Commission."

He said he intends to ask for such a review and to send the board the "relevant papers."

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas Republican, New Jersey, said the House Committee "now will hold public hearings on this case."

He said that "I am resolved to have a showdown."

"Secretary Harriman," he said, "hasn't got the courage to produce these records at this time. But he will produce them before we are through."

Harriman told the committee he "concurred" in the finding of his Department's 3-man Loyalty Board Feb. 24 that "No reasonable grounds exist for believing that Dr. Condon is disloyal to the Government of the United States."

STORMY'S WELCOME MATCHES NAME

Strip-Teaser Dunked, Hit on Jaw at LSU

BATON ROUGE, La., March 4 — (UP) — Strip-teaser Stormy Laurence's friendly feud with Louisiana State University turned roughhouse Thursday when she visited the college and did an impromptu peel down to her G-string.

Boisterous male students promptly dunked her in the campus lake and at least one co-ed landed a punch on Stormy's jaw.

"Boys will be boys," Stormy remarked as she clambered out of the water with goose pimples covering her where the G-string didn't.

Stormy caught a plane back to New Orleans for her show at the Casino Royale, where she showed up Thursday night displaying the following adornment to her usually undraped charms:

'A scraped foot Four loosened teeth in her lower jaw. A lower lip that was beginning to look like a Ubangi's. An eye that was darkening rapidly. She said at least one co-ed hit her.

Stormy said she also lost a $200 sports coat, $50 worth of other clothes she discarded in her strip act and didn't have time to retrieve; and a $1,500 ring (she dropped that in the lake, she said).

"For the time being, my college career is over," said Stormy.

After the affair of the campus lake, Stormy climbed into the waiting arms of LSU policemen who rushed her shivering to a substation. A mob of students surrounded the substation yelling 'we want Stormy."

It was obvious that the flimsy substation would not stand up under the pushing and shoving of the mob, so a police car was summoned. When it arrived, Hubert (Tank) Shurtz, a 225-pound first-string football tackle, broke a path through the mob.

Policemen carried Stormy out behind him, slapped her into the back seat of the police car and rushed her away.

Stormy's band scrambled to safety.

Stormy, whose real name is Stacie Laurence invaded the LSU campus to settle a personal score with Maj. J. Perry Cole, Director (Dean) of Student Affairs. When she announced she was going to campaign on the campus for a candidate in the student elections, Cole said:

The answer is 'no.'

When she arrived on the campus she had on sun glasses, a white Gibson Girl blouse and a long black skirt. As the band played and the students gathered, Stormy went into her bumps and grinds and began to peel.

First the glasses went, then the blouse, then the skirt. Under that, Stormy had on a brief bathing suit.

Wiggling provocatively, she slipped two fingers into the back of the trunks to flip them off. It was then that the students grabbed her, bore her off squirming and protesting to the lake, and threw her in.

Stormy's feud with Cole started about two weeks ago. A sexy university student magazine, "Pell Mell," ran a "Stormy issue." It had a picture of her on the cover and a layout inside.

Then the staff of the magazine brought her from New Orleans to raise circulation.

"Pell Mell" was banned for cheapening the name of the University. The editor, Pat McIntyre, of Baton Rouge, resigned to run for the presidency of the student body.

Stormy said that since she had caused McIntyre so much trouble, she would help him get elected.

A-KISSIN' AND A-MISSIN'

Big Jim Skips Out On Models, Solons

WASHINGTON, March 4—(UP)—Kissin' Jim Folsom became Missin' Jim Thursday while 500 lovely models and a roomful of not-so-pretty Congressmen waited like brides at the church.

Alabama's amazing Governor had date with models in New York and onther with the Congressmen on Capitol Hill. Both at the same time.

He solved the mix up by leaping into his Cadillac limousine and driving off for parts unannounced.

Aides said he was mighty sorrowful about disappointing all those girls.

Folsom's vanishing act resolved one of the problems that made his 24-hour stay in Washington something less than merry.

It saved him the trouble of dodging more embarrassing questions from newspapermen about that paternity suit filed against him in Cullman, Ala., by Mrs. Christine Johnston, 30-year-old divorcee.

Mrs. Johnston charges that Big Jim is the father of her 22-month-old son, and she wants to be declared his common-law wife.

Reporters pounced on the Governor as soon as he moved into his hotel suite here Wednesday. He said he'd talk about anything else but that—even about his willingness to accept the Democratic nomination for President.

But no baby talk.

"I'm in a political campaign in Alabama and I have had to face these tactics in other political campaigns," he said. "That's all I have to say on the subject."

At 8 o'clock Thursday morning an aide came down to the hotel lobby and told the reporters that the Governor had left four hours earlier by plane for Montgomery.

The car pulled away without Folsom. Reporters tailed it in a taxicab for 20 minutes. Finally back to the hotel.

The Governor's aide climbed out and took them up to the Governor's suite for another farewell appearance.

"I'm sure sorry my boys kinda fouled y'all up," said Folsom apologetically. "I didn't know nothing about that."

Finally, Big Jim ushered everyone out. Then he disappeared for good.

PARENTS DENY NEGLECT—Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Carney, of 728 Cooper St., S. W., stand with their attorney, W. F. Moore, left, in Recorder's Court, where they emphatically denied Thursday they had neglected or mistreated any of their 10 children. Atlanta police, who arrested the Carneys Wednesday night, reported they found four of the Carney children "virtually imprisoned" in a filthy back room. The parents were bound over to the Criminal Court of Fulton County.

Carneys Bound Over on Charges Of Neglect of Four Children

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Carney, of 728 Cooper St., S. W., arrested and jailed on charges of suspicion of neglect of four minor children, Thursday were bound over to the Criminal Court of Fulton County by Judge A. W. Callaway, after a bond hearing in Recorder's Court.

Judge Callaway fixed bond at $100 each. As property owners they were permitted to sign their own bond.

Mr. and Mrs. Carney emphatically denied they had neglected or mistreated their children, after Sgt. I. A. Thomas, Juvenile Investigator of the Police Department, told Judge Callaway that four of the Carney children had been confined "in an indescribably filthy room with a stifling odor."

Mrs. Carney raised her right hand as she testified "I swear to God I never hurt them. . . . It seems like when you try to live right, someone's gonna try to down you. I don't understand it."

Sgt. Thomas testified two little Carney girls, Joyce, three, and Gilda, two, were so malnourished that neither of them could walk. He said the four-year-old twins, Wayne and Duane, also were malnourished. He pointed out that three of the children were admitted for treatment at Grady Hospital.

Miss Emily Hart and Mrs. Evelyn Langford, policewomen, substantiated Sgt. Thomas' accusations.

W. F. Moore, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Carney, presented eight witnesses who vouched for the good character of the Carneys.

Interviewed in their jail cells before their release on bond, the parents expressed shock at the police charges.

"I wish I had all my little ones right here in jail with me," Mrs. Carney said. "I love them, and that's the truth, so help me God!

"Those children weren't imprisoned in that room. They went there because they wanted to. I was just fixing to give 'em a bath, when the police come."

In answer to reports by the police that the Carneys had discriminated against four of their children, while the other six were well fed and healthy, Mrs. Carney asserted:

"I never have showed no favorites. I love one just as good as the other. I gave 'em all three meals a day. And I wouldn't do nothing to hurt any of them."

Carney, who said he made $65 a week as a crane operator for Southern Railway, said if his children hadn't had enough to eat, it was only because "with such a large family, you can't buy all the vitamins."

"We don't never go off and leave them at the same time," Carney pointed out, as he nervously lit another cigarette.

Police Blotter

DOPE PROBE—Moving fast in efforts to uncover members of an international dope ring, police devoted Thursday to questioning a one-legged man captured here and checking addresses found in his possession. Officers believed that addresses seized in the arrest of Harry R. Copeland, 40, may reveal identity of a narcotics gang operating from coast to coast. Copeland also was being questioned in connection with a series of narcotics burglaries in and around Atlanta. Narcotics valued at $5,000 were seized Tuesday night in a house raid on Payne Road, where Copeland was arrested Wednesday. Police said part of the narcotics was identified as having been taken in a burglary Sunday night at the Walden Drug Store. Police also are probing a possible connection between Copeland and $1,000 worth of raw heroin found a few weeks ago in a Union Station locker.

TAKES ALL KINDS—Two new burglary types—"The Bouncing Thief" and "The Cat"—were objects of police probes Thursday. The Bouncer jumped over a counter Thursday morning at the Smith Wine and Beer Shop, 272 Auburn Ave., grabbed $58 from the cash register, and vaulted back over the counter. R. I. Lewis, owner of Associated Photographers, 191 Whitehall St., found Thursday morning that "The Cat" had beat him to opening the establishment. Missing was a camera valued at $220. A note in the typewriter informed Lewis he could get the camera back by "paying me $20." The note was signed "The Cat." . . . Police Thursday were investigating theft of $800 in merchandise hauled away from the Cut-Rate Drug Store, 68 Forsyth St., S. W. The loot included $360 worth of cigarettes.

Third GEA District Divided Into Two

Because there is no auditorium in the Third District large enough to hold its delegates, the Georgia Education Association Thursday voted to make two districts of the 23-county area.

In the Third District, East, will be the following counties: Dodge, Wilcox, Ben Hill, Turner, Crisp, Dooly, Pulaski, Houston, Peach, Macon and Lee.

In the Third District, West, will be: Muscogee, Chattahoochee, Stewart, Quitman, Clay, Marion, Webster, Terrell, Schley, Randolph, Sumter and Taylor.

NEWARK, N. J., March 4—(AP)—A woman reported to police Thursday that her car had been stolen from a parking lot.

"An identical car was left in the same place," she added in an annoyed manner.

And what's more, she complained, her key fitted the ignition lock of the strange car.

Police investigated. They checked the license plates and learned the car belonged to the woman.

Her father had put on 1948 license plates the night before.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—This man was an "eat and run" driver.

At a Dixie Highway barbecue stand he ran up a 65-cent bill and went off without paying the bill and taking $5.30 worth of silver, crockery and serving tray.

Lost and Found, By Department

DES MOINES—(AP)—A 2-year-old lad and his puppy took a walk down the middle of a busy Des Moines street this morning at an hour when traffic was heavy.

Delbert Robertson stopped his car and hustled the crying boy inside. The puppy bolted away.

Unable to find out the boy's name or address, Robertson took him to the Robertson home and called police.

Again Robertson started off to work. A few blocks away he saw the black puppy and Mrs. Harold De Smidt, searching frantically for her lost son.

Mrs. De Smidt and her son, Gary, were quickly reunited.

No Chocolate Over the Bars

NEWARK, N. J.—(AP)—There'll be no Easter eggnogs encased in chocolate bunnies sold over the bars of New Jersey.

State Alcoholic Beverage Control Comm. Erwin B. Hock approved sale of Eastertide eggnogs—as eggnogs.

But, he ruled out an inquiry whether a barkeep could serve four ounces of eggnog in an edible chocolate container, asking:

"Is the tavernkeeper's eggnog so unpalatable that it must be served sugar-coated? Is it no longer to be the cup but now the candy that cheers?"

'Bumper' Case Costs Him Term

JOLIET, Ill., March 4—(AP)—William E. Tomlinson, a used car dealer who calls himself "The Wild Irishman," pleaded guilty Thursday to fatally shooting a man during an argument over locked automobile bumpers.

The victim, John Naiden, 32-year-old father of three children, was shot Nov. 22 after the car in which he was riding locked bumpers with the Tomlinson automobile.

Tomlinson, 45, pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to six years in prison by Circuit Judge James E. Bartley.

A previous charge of murder was reduced to manslaughter on motion of State's Atty. James Burke after Tomlinson agreed to plead guilty to manslaughter.

NO HOME SPANKINGS, DITTO SCHOOL: PARENTS WITHDRAW 'MODEL' PUPIL

GRIFFITH, Ind., March 4—(AP)—Albert Jensen, a "model" pupil, has never been spanked at home. His parents vow he'll never be spanked at school, either.

After a schoolmate was spanked last November, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Jensen, asked Principal John Matthews, of the Griffith Elementary School, to promise that Albert would never suffer the same fate for any misdeeds.

The Principal refused, although the boy's teacher agreed he was a "model" pupil. So Albert's parents took their 9-year-old out of school.

A complaint has been issued charging them with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. They have been released under bond pending a Juvenile Court hearing.

The Jensens are testing Indiana court rulings which permit school teachers to inflict corporal punishment when their pupils misbehave.

Thompson Shuns School-Fund Plea But Pledges Aid in 'Explaining' Plan

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Pointing to his past generosities which have helped make Georgia's effort in contributing to schools among the best in the Nation, Acting Gov. Thompson Thursday night failed to indorse definitely a Georgia Education Association plea for doubled the present State allocation.

However, Thompson, a career school man, drew loud applause from the teachers when he promised to join them in explaining the proposed "Foundation Program" to the people, and also in informing the people what they might expect to receive in return for greater financial support to benefit their children.

"I hope that next year I will be privileged to deliver my first and only Budget Message to the General Assembly of Georgia," Thompson said. "Knowing the teachers as I do, I know you would want the Budget Message to take into consideration the needs of other agencies rendering services to the people through State funds, and also the ability of the people to pay."

Thompson said Georgia was one of six States in which the educational situation was better today than in 1940. National Educational Association reports showed that Georgia, which increased its per pupil expenditures 93 percent in 1947 over 1939, was one of six States whose present spending exceeded the pre-war level of uninflated dollars per pupil.

Citing his own record in educational aid, Thompson said his administration, without new taxes, had provided more money for schools than the Legislature proposed to do with new taxes and even more than the GEA originally had asked.

Thompson said that despite the Legislature's failure to pass an Appropriations Bill, he had provided $46,264,000 for schools.

Herman Talmadge, who was claiming the Governorship during the 1947 seassion, had suggested $29,178,000 under the existing tax structure, and $15,522,025 to be financed by new taxes—making a total of $44,700,025 with new taxes, as compared with Thompson's $46,264,000 without additional taxes.

H. L. Wingate, of Pelham, President of the Georgia Farm Bureau, who was largely responsible for the teachers' 50 percent pay increase in 1946, told the teachers Thursday night that new tax measures will have to be passed if teachers' pay is to be raised.

"In 1946 the money was on hand to pay the teachers more money and we knew it," Wingate said. "The money is not there today."

GEA leaders predicted the people would be willing to pay additional taxes next year in order to provide adequate educational facilities for their children. They unanimously approved a program asking the 1949 Legislature to allocate $83,000,000 for schools, guaranteeing teachers a minimum salary of $2,400.

GEA Pres. Bela Lancaster, of LaGrange, sharing the platform with Thompson Thursday night, said the "Foundation Program" funds would be used to increase teachers' salaries, increase State allotment of teachers to local systems, provide more State aid for maintenance and operation of schools, increase State aid of pupil transportation, and initiate State aid for current capital outlay. He said he believed the people wanted these services and were willing to pay for them.

GEA Sec. Harold Saxon pointed out that the "Foundation Program" was not originated by the teachers, but was advocated by a Senate-House Committee investigating school conditions. He said the program was "bigger than any one Governor, or any flock of Governors." He predicted the people would be glad to pay additional taxes to keep their children from having "to leave home before day ride all over the County in unheated and unsafe busses, attend classes in a dungeon-like schoolroom, and then get home after dark."

J. Gorham Garrison, of Ochlochnee, was chosen President of the GEA without opposition. He is a former Vice President, and ran a close race for President last year.

Dr. George Sparks, head of the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia, was re-elected a member of the Teachers' Retirement System Board of Directors.

The teachers adopted resolutions asking the Legislature to:

1. Place a $50-a-month floor for retiring teachers with 35 years' service prior to reaching the age of 60.
2. Make the Teacher Retirement Board a constitutional board.
3. Protect teachers' jobs with a tenure law.
4. Create a three-member board of county tax equalizers, one to be named by the County Board of Education, one by City Council, and one by the County Commissioners. The commissioners now name all equalizers.
5. Permit schools to use bond money to pay insurance on school property.
6. Provide for possible reciprocity with other States on prior teacher service credit for retirement.

Departmental meetings will be held over the city today.

Dr. Ralph McDonald, Executive Secretary of the National Education Association, will address the general session at 8 p. m. at the Municipal Auditorium.

Two Youths, 17, Held After $6,000 Holdup

PARIS, Tenn., March 4—(UP)—Indiana police were on their way here Thursday to return two 17-year-old youths who confessed staging a $6,000 night club holdup in Indianapolis.

The two were captured Wednesday and early Thursday by Henry County Sheriff Clyde Williams and armed deputies, assisted by Paris police.

The youngsters were identified as William LeMay, 17, of Nashville, Tenn., and Johnnie Raven, 17, of San Antonio, Texas.

LeMay was taken at gunpoint in a tourist court Wednesday afternoon. Raven escaped and was captured at a nearby farmhouse early Thursday morning, half-frozen and starved, after an all-night search by a posse with bloodhounds.

Police also captured a stolen Cadillac sedan with Indiana license plates in which the boys had been riding, and recovered $3,519.95 in loot, including more than $1,600 in coins. A loaded pistol was found in the car's glove compartment.

The boys told police they met in Memphis Feb. 25 and decided to "get some money—quick—to have a good time on." They staged the Indianapolis robbery early Tuesday, and fled to West Tennessee, where they stumbled into a widespread manhunt resulting from several recent murders, a highway robbery of a bus and a series of other crimes.

Identification was made when a news photograph was transmitted over the Acme telephoto network by the Memphis Commercial Appeal. One of the victims identified LeMay when shown the photo by the Indianapolis Times.

LITTLE DOG WASN'T DROWNED

Corky Comes Home From Sewer 'Death'

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 4—(UP)—Charles Stewart, 12, saw a miracle in his own front yard Thursday.

His cocker spaniel, Corky, came trotting up the walk while Charles was looking gloomily out the window, mourning his death.

"Here comes Corky," Charles screamed, and ran out to meet him. Corky whimpered and snuggled into his arms.

Wednesday firemen told Charles his pet was dead. They said he drowned while they were trying to wash him out of a 12-inch, 40-foot long drain pipe where he got stuck Monday while chasing a muskrat.

Charles stood by Monday night and all day Tuesday while police and Humane Society representatives tried to release him. As a last resort, the firemen tried to dislodge him with pressure of water from a fire hose. That didn't work, and the whimpering ceased.

But Thursday Corky came home.

Charles wrapped him in blankets and gave him warm milk. A veterinarian said the dog hadn't been hurt and would be all right in a day or so.

GOP Names 4 to Conduct PeachPrimary

Georgia Republicans Thursday turned to the legal and educational fields for conduct of a Peach State GOP Presidential Preference Primary this Spring.

The move came after Atty. Gen Eugene Cook ruled that the GOP, or any other political party, may not use State General Election machinery for a Presidential Preferential Primary.

Republican National Committeeman Wilson Williams a few hours later disclosed that the Party has designed a five-man committee to conduct the primary and certify the results.

The Committee includes Vance Custer, of Bainbridge, President of the Georgia Bar Association: Charles J. Hilkey, Dean of the Emory University Law School; Elbert P. Tuttle, President of the Atlanta Bar Association; Philip H. Weltner, President of Oglethorpe University; and a fifth person to be selected by the other four Committeemen.

Williams issued the following statement Thursday night:

"An effort was made to induce the officers of the State to conduct the primary, because we believe that all primaries of all parties should be conducted by those who conduct general elections. We earnestly hope that the eminent attorneys we have designated can induce the State officials to co-operate with them in establishing the same voting places which are customarily used in general elections.

"Primaries are essential to the expansion and success of political parties, and few will deny that Georgia needs two-party government."

Balked in efforts to have County Ordinaries conduct the primary Williams said that guarantee of a fair count remains the main GOP object.

THE RED SURGE

Soviet Block Mapped Amid Rising Tension

By THE UNITED PRESS

Europe's Red Tide of Communism surged closer to Finland Thursday, but in Washington, Brussels and Rome countermeasures were given further studies as tension between the two forms of government tightened in the troubled world.

From Helsinki came news that an official spokesman of the Finnish Foreign Office had announced Finland probably would accept Russian Premier Josef Stalin's proposal to negotiate a Russo-Finnish treaty. The six major political parties of the nation reportedly had agreed that Finland would have to enter negotiations, and two in a public statement said the treaty should be one of "friendship and mutual assistance."

VIENNA, March 4—(AP)—A reliable Government source said Thursday night the Communists were making the first moves in what appeared to be a general offensive against the Austrian Government. This source said a recent strike movement, centered primarily in Soviet-controlled plants, was a blow at both the Government and the Association of Trade Unions.

WEDEMEYER'S WARNING

In Washington, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, planning chief of the U. S. Army, told Congress the United States would pay in blood unless it acted now to halt Communism by military as well as economic aid to imperiled nations.

Wedemeyer urged aid for China, in "difference" to the expressed opinion of Sec. of State Marshall; but declared, "I believe we should give military aid to all peoples whose policies and economic structures are compatible with our own and who are struggling against totalitarian doctrines."

WESTERN EUROPE PACT

From Brussels diplomatic circles came hints that a pact was being drafted to unite Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg in a mutual defense agreement for at least 50 years.

The reports came from talks on a suggested Western European Union to stem Communistic expansion. A great general agreement is expected by Sunday.

LINES TIGHTENED

Lines were drawn in Italy for Parliamentary elections set for April 18, when balloting will decide whether Italy falls into the Communist camp.

Big election issues in Italy are:

1. CZECHOSLAVOKIA. The events at Prague have let the anti-Communists take the offensive for the first time. De Gasperi and lesser orators are warning, "It can happen here." The Communists answer, "It ought to."

2. THE CHURCH: The Leftists are angry at the advice Italian Cardinals and Bishops have been giving the Catholics that their religion obliges them to vote against parties and candidates who will not respect the Church.

3. UNITED STATES—ERP: Curiously, the Communists are keeping fairly quiet about the last two issues these days.

A decree from the Church's Consistorial Congregation, which was published in large Rome newspapers for the first time Wednesday and in effect supported the Bishop's anti-Communist line, received no attention from Leftist morning newspapers Thursday.

FLIGHT

In Red-grabbed Czechoslovakia, where opposition leaders have been subjected to attack and pressure, disclosure was made of attempted escapes to American-occupied Germany. Bohuslav Deci, Nationalist Social member of Parliament; Milada Prochazkova, daughter of the former Foreign Minister of Health, and others were reported arrested at the Czech border.

Suit to Stay Despite Plea

MADISON, Wis., March 4—(AP) A circuit judge refused Thursday to dismiss a $50,000 civil damage suit filed in 1940 against Leo T. Crowley, financier and formerly a prominent New Deal Democrat.

Plaintiff in the action is Daniel H. Grady, Portage, Wis., attorney, also a Democrat.

Details of the suit were made public for the first time when Crowley's counsel moved it be dismissed under the five-year statute of limitations.

Judge Herman Sachtjen denied the motion. Grady had testified he had not pressed the case earlier because Crowley then was "not financially responsible, negotiations were under way for settlement and because I did not want to embarrass a high public official during the war."

Grady said the suit arose from a contract reached between him and Crowley on May 1, 1931, as a result of losses he (Grady) sustained in trading bank shares.

GO FORWARD, THEIR RULE

Atlanta Policemen Often Dare Death

By KEELER McCARTNEY

Sudden bloodshed is not new to Atlanta policemen.

Dozens of others have answered routine complaints such as that which brought death to Patrolman M. H. Key and critical injuries to Patrolman R. C. West Thursday morning.

On a call to a McAfee Street residence, Key and West were warned that the man inside was armed and dangerous. However, they did not hesitate to enter because that was their job.

After a furious gun battle, Key and Alfred C. Hackney, the man sought, lay dead. West, shot through the stomach, managed to drag himself back to the patrol car and radio headquarters for aid.

Things like this just do happen in the lives of policemen, records show. Some are fortunate and come out alive. Others, as did Key, die.

For instance, Jan. 29, 1947, Patrolmen S. S. Howle and T. C. Kennon were attempting to arrest a Negro on Edgewood Ave., N. E. Hilliard Street. The man grappled with Kennon and had succeeded in wresting from him his service revolver when Howle managed to get in the first shot.

Patrolmen W. R. Bailey and Foster Ellington, Sept. 8, 1945, were cruising in North Atlanta when they heard a woman screaming at 83 Fourth St., N. W. Ellington was first to reach the door of the darkened home. As he rushed inside, a man seized him. Bailey rushed to the rescue.

In the violent struggle that followed Ellington was shot through the hand, and the man, a Negro, was killed. An investigation revealed that the screams came from a 70-year-old white woman, who had been criminally assaulted.

Patrolmen K. A. Wooster and T. J. Bowen had a similar brush with death in July, 1945. They answered a call to 293 Washington St., S. W., to be confronted with a crazed man armed with an ax.

Bowen fired as the man swung the ax at Wooster, who was trapped in a corner. The man was killed instantly.

Lt. J. B. Harper was bringing an apparently harmless drunk to headquarters on Dec. 29, 1945. As Harper drove along Hunter St., S. E., near King, the man suddenly whipped out a revolver and fired twice pointblank at Harper's back. The first bullet missed. The second struck Harper in the right arm.

Hurled to the pavement and attacked with a knife when he attempted to arrest a Negro on Decatur Street, near Ivy, last year, Patrolman R. J. Bradley managed to whip out his gun and fire.

Dozens of others have experienced similar close calls with death.

Each time they enter a darkened building they realize that the man inside will have the first opportunity to shoot. Yet their oath of duty allows no turning back.

Valor is the watchword of all policemen.

Cowardice is ground for dismissal and shame.

This Troubled World

Jerusalem, March 4 — (AP) — Seventeen Jewish militiamen were killed Thursday when a Haganah road patrol was ambushed and wiped out in Arab territory north of Jerusalem. Presumably the Jewish patrol was seeking to cut the Arab-controlled highway between Jerusalem and Ramallah, 17 miles to the north. Thursday's killing brought the unofficial death toll in Palestine to 1,590 since the United Nations voted for partition Nov. 29. Included among the victims was a British Army officer who Army sources said was slain as he went to the aid of a wounded Jew. Meanwhile, a reliable source in Haifa said British officials and families awaiting transportation to England were moved from Haifa to Jenin in an Arab area of Palestine. Fear of possible Jewish attacks was given as the reason for the move.

UN MULLS PALESTINE

Lake Success, N. Y. — (INS) The United Nations Thursday was faced with two alternatives Wednesday on what to do about Palestine. Two motions will come before the Security Council Friday. One, favored by the United States and Russia, calls for the 11-nation Council to recognize partition and back it up. The other, known as the Belgian measure, asks that the big five nations get together and work out some means of bringing Arabs and Jews together. Observers say the Belgian plan at present has the best chance of succeeding but that the United States is depending upon behind-the-scenes developments and negotiations to swing the majority its way.

SEEK SELF-GOVERNMENT

London—(AP)—Two West African groups demanded Thursday that Britain's Gold Coast colony be granted immediate self-government following riots in the colony which have taken the lives of 25 persons in the past few days. The British Government attributed the disturbances to Communist incitement. This charge was hotly denied by Gold Coast representatives. The British sloops Actaeon and Nereide are steaming toward Accra, the Gold Coast capital, from Simonstown, South Africa.

YOUR EYES

Hazardous Times Call For Perfect Sight

By DR. L. N. HUFF

in these days when millions of us are patriotically talking about the preservation of life line and vital communications, it might be the part of wisdom to consider how we as citizens may best do our full share in these important undertakings.

DR. L. N. HUFF

Millions of Americans have never had their eyes tested and do not know whether or not the millions of nerves — there are about 3,000,000 in each eye—and the other intricate mechanism of their vision are functioning properly. Thousands of us are seeing only partially in these hazardous times when we should be functioning perfectly for our own protection and that of loved ones.

The human eye is such a fine mechanism that even the best sight-sharp vision is limited to an area about equal to that of a ten-cent piece held at arms' length. That line from your eye to that dime is your vision line. It is vital. It is the best communication system you have or will ever have. It deserves the best protection and the best servicing obtainable.

Take care of the only pair of eyes you will ever have and remember, "It's all in the Examination."

West End Band Tops Festival

The West End Elementary School Band, under the direction of Roy Lee, won distinction as being one of the most unusual musical organizations in the Fifth District Music Festival which closed in Decatur Wednesday.

A check of ratings won by members of the group revealed that five of its members had won "1 plus" ratings.

Winners of the top ratings were: Johnny Demos, Bobby Edgerton, Bertie Laney Shell, Betty Ann Lupberger and Wayne Goggins. Sponsors of the Band said as far as they could determine no other group had so many winners of top ratings.

In addition, the West End Band also embraces a brass quartet which won a "1 plus" rating. The quartet is composed of Gary Bond, Edwin Lupberger, Wayne Goggins and Jerry McDonald.

Sutherland Requests Civil Military Funds

"You can't run the Civilian Military program on peanuts," Col Carl T. Sutherland, City Personnel Director of Atlanta and Commander of the 81st Infantry, testified in a conference of the Armed Forces Committee on Civilian Components in Washington.

Before leaving for Atlanta Thursday night, Col. Sutherland urged that the Armed Forces educate the public to the series mission of civilian components; advised early Congressional passage of the Bill granting inactive duty pay to officers and men of the Reserve components; and asked early passage of the Non-Disability Retriment Bill for all Reservists.

Officer, Watchman Killed, Patrolman Hurt in Battle

Violent death in gunplay with police had an almost hereditary angle early Thursday for an Atlanta night watchman who shot one policeman to death, critically wounded another and was himself slain in a furious pistol battle at his home, 323 McAfee St., N. W.

Alfred C. Hackney, 53, was the night watchman who killed Radio Patrolman Marion Howell Key, 39, and wounded Radio Patrolman Robert Cleve West when the officers sought to arrest him after he had threatened to kill members of his family.

Two of Hackney's sons, William Clifford Hackney and Morgan Jones Hackney, said later their their paternal grandfather and paternal uncle had both met death in battles with police years ago in Cedartown, but that they did not know the details.

The night watchman who thus followed his own father and brother in violent death, allegedly had beaten his wife, threatened his children and vowed not to be arrested, in events leading up to Thursday's double tragedy.

Police investigation revealed that Hackney's wife and several of their nine children had been having trouble with him since December, and for several hours prior to the gun battle Hackney had sought to find one of his sons with the expressed intention of killing him.

In sworn statements to Det. W. L. Grower, of the Homicide Squad, Det. Sgt. L. T. Bullard and Det. J. E. Helms, members of Hackney's family told the police of beatings by Hackney and of threats by him to "kill them all and the police, too."

Mrs. Bessie Dean Hackney, 48, the wife, who has been ill for several months, told of her husband beating and choking her in February and then warning the family Wednesday night not to be at home when he returned from his night watchman's job Thursday morning. She took their three smallest children, Clarence, 15; John, 13, and Frances Virginia, 11, to the home of another son, Joseph H. Hackney, 31, to spend the night, and they were not at the McAfee Street address when the shooting occurred.

Only one son, Morgan Jones Hackney, about 20, was at home with his father at the time of the double tragedy. It was this son the night watchman had forced to drive him about town for several hours seeking another son, William Clifford Hackney, 29, who had remonstrated with his father for mistreating the family and drinking too much. Fearing the father's anger, it was William Clifford Hackney who had appealed to the police for protection and warned them his father was armed and dangerous.

What turned out to be a grim game of hide-and-seek wound up at the Hackney home where the father and Morgan Jones Hackney had returned after a fruitless search for William Clifford Hackney.

Patrolmen Key and West pulled up at the house at about 2:50 a. m., and went to the door. The lone son in the house said he was in the bathroom and heard voices. He went toward the front of the house, he said, saw his father talking to the policemen in a front hallway and then returned to the bathroom.

About three or four minutes later, he said, he heard a volley of shots ring out. Approaching the front of the house, he saw his father and both policemen lying on the hallway floor, he said. Immediately after telephoning for an ambulance, he said he saw one of the policemen crawl outside to the patrol car and call for help over the police radio. This was Patrolman West, who collapsed soon after ambulances and additional police arrived, and has since been in too critical condition to be questioned.

West was shot once, the bullet entering his abdomen and going into his thigh. Key was found lying on the hallway floor, dead from a wound in his abdomen. Hackney was found sitting against a door jamb, slain from three shots in the abdomen, chest and leg.

Both officers had fired their guns several times.

An inside bedroom door near which Hackney apparently had been standing was riddled with seven bullets which evidently traveled upward. Inside the partially opened bedroom door, the bedroom ceiling and wall were ripped with 11 bullet holes.

William Clifford Hackney who had been threatened once by his father earlier in the night and fled from him thereafter, heard the shooting from a nearby parked truck.

Patrolman Key, a native of Phenix City, Ala., joined the Atlanta Police Department in 1940, served in the Navy from Dec. 17, 1942, until he returned to the Department on Jan. 15, 1946. He is survived by his wife, his mother, Mrs. J. W Key; one brother, J W. Key, Jr., and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips, all of Atlanta. He resided at 1279 Trenton Ave., S. E.

Patrolman West, also a Navy veteran, resides at 381 Sisson Ave., S. E. comfort to, either of the forces that would destroy her.

"The Democratic Party has been good to me, it was good to my fathers before me, and to their fathers. I have never voted any other ticket. I never shall. I have faith that there are others in Georgia who feel the same way. We will hold the dinner, however few or many there may be.

"Every worthwhile and lasting social and economic gain the rank and file of the people of this country have made, has been through the channels of the National Democratic Party. These gains will be undermined and lost if either the Reactionary Republicans or the Impractical Wallace-ites come into power. Let there be no mistaking that. We must not let the forces of greed divide and conquer us.

"Right or wrong, both major parties are committed to Federal civil rights legislation. It has long since been in both party platforms. Franklin D. Roosevelt favored it, and was elected President four times, with the solid backing of Georgia every time. Wallace advocates it. So, in so far as that issue is concerned where would the enemies of the party have us go? Certainly any new minority party would only intensify the issue and insure more extreme legislation. There may be some who think on these things, and wish to grab the water bucket of wisdom and help put out the fires that threaten the good old Party Ship. They will be given a chance to do so.

"Members and leaders of the party live and pass on. Issues are developed, debated, decided and passed on. But the Democratic Party was, is, and must always be, the great instrument of the masses through which they maintain domestic prosperity and achieve world peace.

"This party has led our country to victory in two world wars. This party rescued us from the misery of depression. This party is keeping us at the peak of employment and earnings. This party is sponsoring the only possible plan for world peace. These are the things closest to the hearts of our people, without which the pros and cons of civil rights would not be worth debating. There are those who realize as much. They may want to attend a dinner.

"There will be no quotas, no organized drive, just an opportunity for voluntary contributions to the National Party and for dinner attendance. Headquarters will be opened in advance of the dinner to receive contributions and issue dinner tickets. Speakers of party prominence and fidelity will address the dinner. It will be held in Atlanta.

"Should there be manifested a desire to hold other dinners elsewhere in the State, full co-operation will be given.

"Date, place and speakers will be announced at the opening of headquarters."

'TIS AN ILL WIND—

WEST NEWBURY, Mass., March 4—(AP)—Pupils in the first seven grades of Central Grammar School, taught jointly by five teachers, danced gleefully homeward Thursday—all five teachers were sick.

And as if this were not enough, the truant officer was out sick, too. School officials said the illnesses were colds and similar seasonal ailments.

To prevent spread of the holiday spirit to the other classes the school superintendent appointed a substitute truant officer.

'. . . BUT I GOT HIM, TOO'

Dying Patrolman Reports Gun Battle to Superior

The dramatic story of slain Patrolman Marion Howell Key's report to his superior after he had been mortally wounded in a blaze of gunfire involving him, his policeman buddy, Patrolman Robert Cleve West, and a temporarily crazed night watchman, Alfred C. Hackney, was told Thursday night—by the superior.

Lying in a pool of his own blood, his revolver smoking but empty, Patrolman Key, verbally turned in his last "beat" report—

"He got me, Lieutenant, but I got him, too."

The lieutenant was E. H. Johnson, first officer on the scene of the early Thursday morning shooting marathon in which Key died, Patrolman West was critically wounded and Hackney slain.

To Lt. Johnson, after he had reported what had happened, Patrolman Key turned over both his empty revolver and that of Hackney. Though dying from bullet wounds in his stomach, Patrolman Key had crawled to his assailant and disarmed him.

"Evidence," he indicated to his superior officer.

Lt. Johnson reported that Key told him he emptied his gun at Hackney after he himself had fallen mortally wounded and his companion, also had been felled by the night watchman's bullets.

Lt. Johnson listened to Key's story, then rushed to call an ambulance via his radio patrol car. When he returned, Key was dead.

The Lieutenant reported that when he first arrived at the scene of the tragedy, he called out: "What's going on here?"

"I'm over here," came a voice. "By the car."

It was the voice of Patrolman West.

Walking over to Patrolman West, Lieutenant Johnson said, "How do you feel? Are you all right?"

"I'm all right," reported West. "A man shot me in the stomach. You had better see how Key is."

Key was slain in the furious gunplay that occurred at the Hackney home, 323 McAfee St., N. W., when the two officers sought to arrest Hackney at the latter's family's request. Hackney was 53 years of age, Key 39, and West 37. West is near death at Grady Hospital.

Flint River Navigation Could Reach To Albany

By WELLINGTON WRIGHT,
Constitution Staff Writer.

ALBANY, March 4—Albany can be made the head of navigation on the Flint River, C. P. Lindner, of Atlanta, Chief Engineer for the South Atlantic Division of the Corps of Engineers, told members of the Rotary Club here Thursday.

The Jim Woodruff Dam, now under construction across the Apalachicola River, near Chattahoochee, Fla., will create a nine-foot channel in the Flint River to a point about 18 miles north of Bainbridge. Various civic groups in Albany are now advocating the building of one or two navigations dams south of Albany to bring the nine-foot channel to this city.

A survey made more than 10 years ago indicated that this could be accomplished by two low dams—one at the Lower Vada site, 50 miles below Albany, and the other at Raccoon Creek, 20 miles below here. At the present time, however, it is said that a single dam, located at Newton, 33 miles away, would be sufficient to bring the nine-foot navigation channel to Albany.

Lindner said that this study is under the direction of Col. Joseph J. Twitty, District Engineer at Mobile. He urged his hearers to send Col. Twitty information which would aid him in determining if the volume of traffic from Albany would justify the expense of bringing the navigation channel on the Flint to this point.

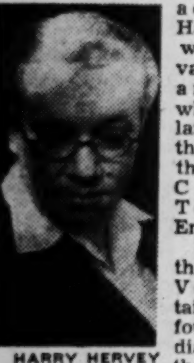
"Our study has not progressed far enough to indicate what our recommendation will be," said Linder. "But you may be sure that if the District Engineer finds that the traffic will justify it, he will approve it. If you have any pertinent information which you think the District Engineer does not have, send it to him. If new industries have developed which will use the waterway, tell him. Let him know how much tonnage these industries expect to move by the waterway."

In discussing the development of the Chattahoochee-Flint-Apalachicola system of waterways, Lindner explained the proposed series of dams—Jim Woodruff, North Columbia, Fort Benning and Buford, then he revealed that it might be possible to do away with the proposed low navigation dam at Fort Benning, on the Chattahoochee.

"If we find that the foundations at North Columbia Dam (near Blakely) will support a higher structure than we now plan for, then we could build a higher dam there and that would make Fort Benning Dam unnecessary. One less dam would be an aid to navigation on the Chattahoochee.

H. T. McIntosh, Editor Emeritus of the Albany Herald, and Walter Brown, Secretary of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, assured Lindner that the people of Albany would redouble their efforts to prove the economic feasibility of the navigation project.

Reds Eying Pakistan, Says Savannah Author



HARRY HERVEY

The coup engineered recently in Czechoslovakia by the Russians is likely to be repeated in Pakistan, according to Harry Hervey, well-known Savannah writer and traveler, who is in Atlanta to address the meeting of the Georgia Council of Teachers of English.

Hervey, author of "The Veiled Fountain," has made four trips to India and feels that in the assassination of Gandhi, India lost the last man who could still keep the rival factions in that unhappy country from tearing each other apart.

A still greater menace, however, is the stalking Runssian Bear, according to Hervey. When he first visited India 18 years ago he was told by the Prime Minister of Kashmir, fabled romantic spot and resort, that it was "too close to Afghanistan ever to remain a peaceful country."

Afghanistan was created by the British as a buffer state between India and Soviet Russia. Hervey says it is common knowledge that Russian agents have infiltrated both Afghanistan and Kashmir, now part of Pakistan, and political seizure of those countries is their next stop with Gandhi out of the way and the country divided.

Hervey is scheduled to address the English Teachers at a banquet tonight at 6 p. m. at the Atlanta Woman's Club. His topic will be "Some Recollection and Prejudices."

Anti-Lynch Bill Rapped by Cook

Opposing Federal anti-lynch legislation, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook Thursday objected to the State itself being penalized for a crime for which it would punish the offenders if it could find them.

He told Emory University law students the Federal Government, which would usurp State duties under the proposed anti-lynch bill, was as ineffective as the State Government in dealing with lynchings. Citizens of Walton County might have been fined $40,000 for failing to prevent the slaying of four Negroes. Yet, Cook noted that the Federal Government, with all its powers, had been ineffective in clearing up that case.

The Attorney General said the Federal Government to take over legislation would permit the Federal State police powers and to prosecute any private citizen for failing to prevent mob action since any citizen of Georgia had authority to apprehend any person seen committing a felony.

Cook said Georgia already had laws requiring police to prevent lynchings. Federal laws could do no more.

Romanian King Repudiates His Abdication

LONDON, March 4—(UP)—Former King Michael, of Romania, formally repudiated his abdication from the throne Thursday, asserting that it was forced on him by a Communist government kept in power by Russia.

A few hours later, as he prepared to sail for the United States to contact Romanian leaders in exile during a visit of two or three weeks, he said:

"I am very hopeful of going back to my own country one day."

Michael repudiated his abdication in a formal statement which he read to correspondents here.

Army Continues Efforts To Free Grounded Ship

NEW ORLEANS, March 4—(AP) Army officers decided Thursday to continue for two more days efforts to free the grounded transport William H. Thomas before removing the ship's 274 passengers.

Lt. S. Noble, public relations officer for the New Orleans port of embarkation, said there was plenty of food and water aboard the vessel and that morale of the stranded passengers was high.

Two Coast Guard vessels, which were sent to the scene at 1:30 a. m. Thursday to remove the passengers, will stand by for the time being, he said.

Pay Hike Urged For Postal Unit

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—Higher pay for postal employees was urged Thursday by Rep. Hale Boggs, Democrat, Louisiana.

"No group of Government workers is more loyal or efficient," he told the House Civil Service Committee which is considering various pay hike bills.

Indorse Regional College Plan

GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Leaders of two national education foundations Thursday indorsed a regional college plan as the only answer to needs for better training in highly specialized fields throughout the nation.

Owen D. Young, New York industrialist and educator, told a conference of Southern college officials that the South will be able to put its plan into effect "quick and easier than we in the North, but we know it is inevitable there too."

Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, President of the Carnegie Foundation, said interstate pooling of resources under a plan similar to the Southern compact provides the only present hope for adequate training in certain fields.

The conference is being held in conjunction with the inauguration of Dr. J. Hillis Miller as President of the University of Florida.

Southern Governors who signed the compact a month ago unexpectedly turned the job of detailed planning over almost entirely to the educators in an obvious effort to divorce the plan from political issues.

'I GUESS THEY DIDN'T KNOW'

Sister Gilstrap Forgives Unsympathetic Jurors

By MARJORY SMITH

Sister Hazel Harmon Gilstrap turned the other cheek Thursday and forgave a Fulton Civil Court jury which found against her and her evangelist husband, the Rev. Abe Gilstrap, in a $175 rent overcharge suit.

"I guess those men didn't know," she murmured, "that I'm the Sanctified Lady."

As for Judge Quincy O. Arnold's refusal to allow Mrs. Gilstrap to tell the jury about a paper bag full of orthopedic braces she clutched throughout the trial, the defendant showed a mild surprise that the jurist hadn't heard of her work "among the halt and the lame in Atlanta."

"Is it irrelevent and immaterial," demanded Sister Hazel, "that I, purely through faith and the laying on of hands, raise up cripples so they have no use for these braces?"

The "Sanctified Lady"—so christened by Negro followers on Atlanta's South Side—and the Rev. Mr. Gilstrap were brought into court by a former tenant, J. F. Samples, who charged the landlords charged him $40 a month for a $17.50 OPA-listed apartment in their home at 333 Dargan Pl., S. W.

A jury, unimpressed by the Rev. Mr. Gilstrap's declining assistance of counsel ("the Lord is our lawyer") and by Sister Hazel's kneeling in prayer before she took the witness stand, recommended that the Gilstrap's pay Samples $175 in rent overcharges, plus $100 lawyers' fees.

While her husband announced his intention of appealing to the Supreme Court, Sister Hazel sat with a benign smile on her face, zipping and unzipping her Bible.

"We don't have the money to pay what the judge ruled," she said, "but I trust in the Lord. And right now, I must get back to my work among the poor, sick people of Atlanta."

Sister Hazel said she began her ministrations after being "healed by faith of paralysis, when 39 specialists had given her up." She and her husband are traveling evangelists, she explained, with Sister Hazel being especially blessed with the gift of healing. The pair settled in Atlanta four years ago, and claims no denomination—"we are accepted by all churches, white and colored."

The Sanctified Lady also has the gift of song-writing, and as she obligingly sang one of her compositions, described as "classical, popular and religious all in one for a reporter, she admitted without false pride:

"I have a deep and beautiful voice—it's another gift of God. I have been so blessed through my faith that I know everything is going to turn out all right in this case. By the way, I have no tenant right now—do you know anybody that would appreciate a good Christian home?"

GEORGIA SHERLOCK

Detective Capt. Gordon Stokes went Sherlock Holmes one better in Albany.

Suspicious that a Negro cafe operator was selling "shine" whiskey, Stokes and Det. J. A. McDonald visited the place, and browsed around. Nothing seemed amiss until Stokes brushed against an innocent looking beer bottle. The bottle top came off and the odor of "moonshine" filled the air. Many other beer bottles were found filled with "shine."

The cafe operator was lodged in the county jail.

ABOLISH MILK BOARD?—Ben M. Smith, of DeKalb County, candidate for Rep. H. O. Hubert's seat in the State Legislature, disclosed a platform plank calling for abolition of the State Milk Control Board. Smith also wants to pass a law specifically prohibiting any State agency from barring the press from any of its meetings.

KEEP GEORGIA GREEN—The third annual Pinetree Festival in Swainsboro has adopted "Keep Georgia Green" as its theme, according to L. H. Edmondson, Keep Georgia Green Director. The festival date: Friday, April 30.

LEGAL POSER—Some supporters of Herman Talmadge are wondering when their candidate would assume the Governorship if he were chosen Chief Executive next Fall. Georgia law says the Secretary of State may not certify State House candidates as elected until the General Assembly meets. Next regular session of the General Assembly is January, 1949. If defeated, M. E. Thompson would continue as Acting Governor until a Legislative session.

Former SS Guard Convicted as Offender

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 4—(AP)—U. S. Army headquarters announced Thursday that Hans Juettner, former SS (Elite Guard) general, has been convicted of being a major Nazi offender.

A special German denazification court at Neustadt gave him the maximum punishment—10 years at hard labor and confiscation of all his property.

Juettner, 55, rose from lieutenant to full general during the Nazi regime and when captured was in command of a replacement army in Berlin. Recently he has been working with 10 other German generals writing World War history for the U. S. Army's historical division.

Linder Suit Withdrawn By Teachers

Brunswick school teachers have dropped their suit against Agriculture Commissioner Tom Linder since he "has retracted his attack on the school system," Aaron Kravitch, attorney for the teachers, announced.

Superior Judge Bond Almand signed the dismissal order Thursday afternoon.

The teachers brought action in an effort to halt alleged illegal practices. They charged that Linder was turning the Market Bulletin into a propaganda sheet against Jews, Catholics, Negroes and others; and he was using the State-financed publication to promote himself against Incumbent Richard B. Russell for the United States Senate.

They sought a court order restraining Linder from spreading personal, religious or political views in the Market Bulletin.

Kravitch said he had telegraphed Judge Almand asking him to withdraw the suit "without prejudice" to the plaintiffs, which means, Kravitch said, that should further attacks of Linder ensue another suit might be filed against him.

SKUNK—REFINED—MUCH IN DEMAND

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 4—(AP)—You can stick up your nose at a skunk, but Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Norman have found that a lot of people like the little animals for pets.

That is, after certain precautions are taken.

The Normans were awakened the other morning by a skunk playing happily on their bed covers. After a hectic few minutes they finally realized the skunk had been deodorized.

So far, several hundred persons have claimed the skunk. One man telegraphed from Los Angeles the pet had hopped out of his car while he was driving through Oklahoma City.

Marvin Harper. The February, 1948, value was listed at $2,436,566, compared to $1,171,922 for February, 1947. Last month's figure also exceeded January, 1948, totals when the cost of construction was listed at $2,266,399.

WELLBORN OPINION—City Atty. Jack Savage said Thursday he expects to complete a study of the law today to determine if a suit to recover approximately $10,000, which former Auditorium Mgr. Burt Wellborn made on shows he sponsored at the Municipal Auditorium, could be successful. Savage said he would send copies of his decision to members of City Council's Buildings and Athletic Committee, which supervises the auditorium.

PARK SALE VETOED—Mayor Hartsfield has vetoed a Council-approved resolution selling a portion of the two-acre Joyner Park for $20,700. The Mayor wanted proceeds from the sale earmarked to help improve a building for use as a City Health Center, but City Council diverted the money for park improvements in the Third Ward, the ward in which Joyner Park is located.

'WE'VE WON A GOOD FIGHT'

'Uncle Remus' Stamp Approved for Issue

Members of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association heaved a happy sigh Thursday when Mrs. W. M. Jenkins, past President, received a telegram from Rep. James C. Davis announcing Postmaster Gen. Jesse M. Donaldson had approved issuance of an "Uncle Remus" commemorative stamp.

According to the telegram, the stamp will be issued on Dec. 9, 1948, to mark the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Joel Chandler Harris.

"We feel we've won a good fight," Mrs. Jenkins declared. "And we are so grateful for all the help ladies of the Memorial Association had in plugging away at this project."

The Memorial Association, at a meeting in celebration of the late Mr. Harris' birthday, Dec. 9, 1947, passed a resolution to petition the post office to issue the "Uncle Remus" stamp. Since that time, through efforts of members and friends, the issue has been almost constantly before Washington officials.

"I expect a letter or wire reached somebody at least two or three times every day," Mrs. Jenkins said. "The matter had already been approved by the House of Representatives, but this action by the Postmaster General means that it need not be taken to the Senate."

The Memorial Association, an organization for perpetuation of the memory of Joel Chandler Harris, asked for the stamp because "Mr. Harris' writings brought pleasure to young and old alike and are now recognized as classics . . . because Mr. Harris, although born in Georgia, belonged to all States and nations."

A Stamp for Joel Chandler Harris

The announcement, late yesterday afternoon, that the Postmaster General has approved the issuance of a special stamp commemorating the centennial of the birth of Joel Chandler Harris is, of course, gratifying to every Georgian.

But it is especially pleasing to The Atlanta Constitution, in whose columns his great genius for so many years was displayed.

Joel Chandler Harris, who came to The Constitution in 1876, contributed a wide variety of writing to the paper during his lengthy career. He was a brilliant editorial writer and paragrapher, but it was his delightful stories of "Uncle Remus," which first appeared in his personal column in this paper, that won him universal acclaim.

The Constitution, which counts Harris one of those responsible for formulating the policies which still guide our efforts, is greatly gratified at this latest recognition of his lasting literary worth. Especially are we appreciative of the untiring efforts of the Joel Chandler Harris Memorial Association, which originated the proposal of the commemorative stamp. Likewise should credit be given Rep. James Davis, of this District, who sponsored the resolution in Congress.

The honor which will be paid the beloved creator of Uncle Remus on Dec. 9, the hundredth anniversary of his birth, is a significant one. But the greatest tribute which could be accorded him comes from the millions who recall his delightful stories of "the critters" with a strange and beautiful nostalgia.

Gov. Dorsey Resigns His Judgeship

After a long and honorable career of public services, former Gov. Hugh M. Dorsey has resigned his post as Judge of the Fulton Superior Court, a position he has held since 1935. Twice Governor of Georgia, he has also distinguished himself as judge, solicitor and attorney.

Replacing Judge Dorsey is Ralph Pharr, well-known member of the Fulton County bar.

The Constitution wishes him success in the new position and can suggest no finer example of judicial service to follow than that of his predecessor.

Into the Hands of Our Enemies

Let's be honest with ourselves.

At a time when the decent people of the South are asking the nation not to impose Federal laws creating certain civil rights statutes, the un-American and anti-Southern Ku Klux Klan stages an exhibition in Wrightsville, Ga., on the eve of a primary.

The Ku Klux Klan thereby gave those who push the civil rights measures more ammunition than they needed.

As long as the Klan openly and flagrantly prevents civil rights, the Federal Government cannot well refuse to act.

There are plenty of laws to protect civil rights.

The recent action of Judge Henry West, in the Oconee Circuit, in throwing out all jury panels because Negroes had systematically been excluded from them, was a courageous one, but it was also the law. It long has been the law.

Yet Dan Duke, the attorney who presented the case, was abused by some of the hangers-on outside the courthouse for insisting upon the law. The South has said—and we have said with the South—that we will solve the problem if given time.

But even as we say it, the Ku Klux Klan and the heedless crowds about courthouses who object to the law already written, give to our enemies the strength to push through Federal laws. There already exists a law which would enjoin it from such actions—but we ignore it.

No more shameful below-the-belt blow was ever struck the South than that struck by the Ku Klux Klan on Tuesday night in Wrightsville. They have delivered us into the hands of our enemies.

... And Still No Action

God alone knows how many helpless children suffer from man's brutality.

In Chicago, a six-foot father, weighing 175 pounds, lashed his two-year-old son "20 or more times" for wetting the bed. After the lashing the father stood the injured child on its feet and said: "Stand up like a man." The child died, never knowing and never understanding why it was so brutally assaulted.

There is, we trust, a special place in Hell for such persons. But all of this brings us around to our local situation.

We had a visit from Sgt. Roseberry, an Army veteran with a fine record of service and character. He wanted it known that his marriage to the Mrs. Roseberry convicted in Atlanta recently for brutal beating of babies had been terminated and that he had suffered greatly from the unfortunate marriage. He didn't know the woman had had two previous husbands nor did he know her character. He is as indignant as other citizens.

Mrs. Roseberry, who was sentenced to prison during her first marriage and who has a bad criminal record, ran a boarding house for babies in Atlanta. There babies were abused and beaten.

We called attention to the fact that Atlanta and Georgia have no laws regulating such homes. We thought surely that a shocked County Commission and an aroused City Council would act immediately. The State cannot act for many months.

But nothing has happened.

Any drunken, sadistic brute can trap innocent, harassed mothers who must work for a living into putting their babies in her monstrous clutches.

Let Council and the County Commission act.

And let other counties and cities with urban populations examine their conditions and also act.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

"As to Brokers . . ."

Editor Constitution: I have just finished reading the letter from Peter J. Frink in this morning's Constitution and on the basis of 15 years' experience as a lawyer's secretary, I want to defend the profession against Mr. Frink's thinly veiled accusation that lawyers are playboys who don't work.

My experience has been that the average lawyer puts in more hours of good, hard work than any laboring man that Mr. Frink might point to. I'd be interested, incidentally, to know what Mr. Frink's profession is.

As to brokers, I'm inclined to agree with Mr. Frink.

SUSAN McDONALD.

Market Bulletin:

Editor Constitution: If the Market Bulletin is classed as a free press, and paid for by the taxpayers or fees from the farmers, I think we should be allowed a little space to give our views, as lot of us disagree with Tom's politics, or the date when the world will come to an end.

We could also have a piece each week from our experts on some of the farmer's best friends, such as the Triple A, Lespedeza, Kudzu, Winter pastures, etc.

BILL FLYNN.

Greenville.

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned.

Civil Rights

Editor Constitution: Ordinarily people try to suppress or hide anything in their lives or habits or thinking which is bias and not approved by society and the laws of religion. They may be guilty but it is not desired that their guilt be publically known.

In the present political upheaval, more political than anything else, it is rather strange that people are deliberately advertising their wrongs, and wrongs which there must be more than a suspicion of guilt. To boldly advertise the fact that one does not wish to be just and kind and orderly and submissive to law and order, governing men's actions is hardly short of contrary to all habits and the thinking of best men. If any other interpretation or construction may be placed upon this bold, outspoken, almost bragging attitude, towards justice and decency as advocated in President Truman's Civil-Right proposals, I just can't see it, motives whatever to the contrary—words and actions are convincing.

CHAS. W. KELLY.

'Drop Pegler'

Editor Constitution: When I hunted out Westbrook Pegler's column in order to work off a little steam—this is usually my most sure-fire method—I found to my pleasant surprise, the worthwhile article of Bob Considine. I enjoyed it immensely, and what may seem strange, I wasn't the least frustrated because of the fact that I couldn't let off the steam—it just wasn't there anymore.

I try to keep an open mind to convincing suggestions from every side of the fence, but I can't see W. P. Perhaps the guy is a necessary evil, it is doubtless sound public policy to have a refreshing element of fervent and sincere opposition to every philosophy of how a government ought to be run. I would be among the first to admit that worthwhile contributions have been made in this manner. But I still can't understand Pegler's appeal—if indeed he has such—by any amount of rationalization.

In my opinion, The Constitution editorials rank favorably with the best in the country. I don't know what sort of arrangement The Constitution has with Pegler but I would like to suggest one—drop him. I've yet to meet anyone who claims to be edified by the stuff he dishes out.

Some Ideas by A Negro Woman

A young Negro woman, married and the mother of one child, came to see me. She has worked as a cook for seven years. Her husband drives a delivery truck for a department store. She and he are high school graduates.

She said that she came because of a conversation with her friends, who had urged her to come. She was very self-conscious and ill at ease. She lost this, as she talked. I want to put it down, her thinking, exactly as I can.

"We read in the papers about your talk at the school and about how they asked you questions and didn't agree with you. We read what else you had to say," she began.

Caste "Those people (at the university) wouldn't spit on us. There isn't anybody harder on a common Negro than they. (She used the word "common" to mean "average," and not in any uncomplimentary way.) They are a lot more distant to their cooks and maids than white people. So, don't you worry too much about how they acted.

"They live off to themselves. They don't have to make their living out working with, or for, white people. They don't have to ride the bus or streetcar twice a day at the most crowded time. When they talk about their problems as Negroes, they are not much talking about ours. It seems to us they are sort of aiming at the moon and overlooking a lot that could be done.

"Busses" "We know there are a lot of mean colored people just like there are mean white people, always with a chip on their shoulder. They are looking for a chance to be mean. But the rest of us are not.

"What we don't understand is a lot of things that look simple to us. We don't like to crowd past people in the busses and on the streetcars. But the way it is, the white people get on first and then a lot of them get mad when we have to pass by. Why don't they see that by standing back and letting us on first there would be none of this trouble? What we'd like is to be treated like a person. We don't enjoy crowding by any more than white folks like to be crowded. But we can't do anything else.

"Of course, I wish there wasn't any such law, not because I want to sit with white people, but because I want to sit. But I'd make of that bridge one to cross later. First off, we'd like to fix it so we wouldn't have to crowd by. It looks to us like, on the routes where they have a lot of Negroes, it would make sense to have a conductor and have two entrances. If the law is like it is, then there don't seem much sense in making it hard to operate.

Living "We sure don't want to live next door to white people. I know a lot of people don't understand why their cook or maid or chauffeur won't live on the place. Well, it gets lonesome. And you like to be with your own people. That's natural.

"But we would like to be able to rent or buy a little place that's fit to live in. You take where I live. I can't stand it much longer. When my boy gets older I got to move. There are bad people and bad children in my block. But, on what we make, that's where we got to live. That's true of a lot of us.

"The police don't understand. We got mean Negroes in our section that brag about being friends with police. They do some mean things to Negroes, and we are afraid to fight back because it doesn't help any. The police may come out, but they just look around or bawl out everybody. After they are gone, the bad people may come and cut you or burn up your house. It looks like sometimes the white people think all Negroes are just alike, that they think alike and act alike.

Summary "What we wish would be done first is to fix up the busses so there isn't so much chance of trouble; to fix it so people that want to live decent can, and to give us a chance to work. It's bad for us to get doctors and dentists, too. My husband is a good radio repairman, but he can't get a job. That's the start we want made and it looks like the other people do all the talking. I said I'd come and they dared me and I did and I appreciate your listening."

(Editor's Note—This illustrates very well another failure of Southern thinking . . . a failure to realize that Negroes have their own castes and strata of society which are perhaps even more rigid than those of white people. And certainly all she said is true, especially that the mass opinion regards all Negroes alike, usually thinking of them all in terms of the worst. Let this be a second chapter in a primer on Southern thinking.)

RALPH T. JONES

'The Tragic Plight Of the Barefoot Arab'

In the January issue of Atlantic Monthly is an exhaustive article on the Middle East, with special reference to the Palestine situation and problem. It is an objective and, apparently, factual analysis, which should bring to all who read it clarity in the puzzling and complicated situation.

It is, however, with that part of the report which deals with social and economic conditions among the great masses of the Arab world that this column is chiefly interested. It presents such a shocking and horrifying picture of conditions of life among a large segments of humanity in this year 1948—a year we are too apt to consider a year of civilized progress.

As basis for this study, let us first think a moment on one statistical point. This is, that one-half of one percent of the population owns one-third of the land. That illustrates the truth of the statement that there is practically no such thing as a socially conscious middle class. There are the rich and the miserable peasants and workers. There is nothing resembling, even, democratic political conditions in any Arab countries.

$35 a Year The average annual income of an Iraqi peasant family before the war was $35. Children only six years old are employed in a cotton-gin plant for a daily wage of 15 cents. Syrian agricultural workers are paid even less. Slavery is recognized by law in Saudi Arabia and in the Yemen. Illiteracy ranges from 70 percent in Syria to 90 percent in Iraq. In the Yemen, a country the size of Kansas with 3½ million people, there is only one newspaper.

In Egypt and other parts of the Middle East, nearly 90 percent of the peasants are slowly dying of a disease called bilharzia. Malaria kills 50,000 annually in Iraq. Pellagra and trachoma are found everywhere.

Egypt, the most advanced of all Arab states, has a higher death rate than India and life expectancy in Iraq is only 27 years. One child in every two born dies before the age of five.

To illustrate the helplessness and cost of bureaucracy, Egypt once tried to destroy rats as an anti-plague campaign. It was found, at the end, it had cost them $50 for every rat killed.

Arab tenant farmers are kept in economic slavery to the absentee landowners through a system of debts which permits annual interest rates from 50 percent and as high as 200 percent.

No sadder nor more hopeless picture of human misery can be imagined.

Yet, says the report, there is one bright hope.

The One Promise That one hope to lift the Arab out of his misery into a decent way of life, is oddly enough, Palestine, and the free Jewish state there which the Arab leaders are today fighting so bitterly.

T. E. Lawrence, the best friend and the greatest champion the Arab ever had, once wrote: "I am decidedly in favor of Zionism. I look on the Jews as the natural importers of that Western leaven which is so necessary for the countries of the Near East. . . . The success of their scheme will involve inevitably the raising of the present Arab population to their own material level, only a little after themselves in point of time. . . ."

As for their present military strength, the report considers it but slight. Rivalries would, in all probability, prevent any coalition of the military strength of the various Arab countries, but even united they couldn't muster more than 135,000 men all told and many of these would have to remain at home to control the discontented masses and cope with mutinous tribesmen. The Jewish armed forces could easily overcome any such Arab force, believes the writer. On the one provision that British assistance, at present given in troop training and equipment, be withdrawn.

The Money Plenty of money has been poured into the Arab world in recent years.

This has come in the form of British subsidies, interest-free, oil royalties and other oil company expenditures, wartime payments—at exorbitant rates—for goods and services.

But it is to be doubted if all this money has benefited the Arab masses one cent's worth. Instead it has been diverted into the coffers of the already rich and has been tossed away in senseless display.

As an example—the Arab League pays the Mufti, its leader, an annual allowance of $400,000.

If Lawrence and others are right, ultimate establishment of a free Jewish state in Palestine will benefit its present time foes, the Arabs, more than any others.

Cloakroom-to-Cloakroom Pay?

More than a thousand teachers have been on strike in Minneapolis.

Apparently they are smarter than the school board realized when it hired them.

Incidentally, I'll bet they don't have to worry about students trying to cross their picket line.

The teachers are asking up to $6,000 a year . . . plus, presumably, time and a half for keeping kids after school.

The teaching profession has come a long way since the schoolmaster got room and board and $8 a month, out of which he had to buy his own chalk.

Teachers struck frequently in those days, too . . . but always with a ruler.

Modern teachers still take their educational obligations seriously. But they don't mind suspending their Latin, algebra and political science classes to give city fathers a lesson in modern labor relations.

Income Tax Laws That Punish Success

Gifts to private philanthropies in our larger cities fell off about 16 percent last year. This decline in good works and charities seems to be national. Doubtless there are many reasons for it, but one rather obvious reason is that people have at last grown tired of paying 80 cents or something like that for the privilege of giving away a dollar.

Under the present law, a private citizen may deduct 15 percent of his income for charity, and a corporation may deduct 5 percent. But one who is able to give more, and wishes to give more, must pay an unjust and outrageous tax on what he gives.

Some States require citizens to pay a tax on the tax they pay to the Federal Government. That seems the limit of injustice. But to go further and make them pay a tax on money they give away is not only unjust, but an uncommonly foolish method of killing geese that lay golden eggs.

Our statesmen have made various efforts to justify the provisions of the tax law as it now is. One purpose, said some, was to punish the competent for being too successful. Another was to take money from the people so they couldn't spend it to increase inflation.

But the fundamental purpose was to get money to pay the expenses of Government, including philanthropies, charities and various kinds of hand-outs.

America has always been a land of philanthropists. There were times when rich men built Fifth Avenue mansions or senseless skyscrapers as monuments to themselves; but always there were more men, like Carnegie, who wished to return their wealth to the people who provided it.

These men helped to build useful institutions that depended on philanthropy from the beginning. Stop the gifts of the rich and such institutions will starve—unless the Government uses tax money to support them.

Congressmen are learning these things, and making plans to improve matters; but as usual when they see urgent need of reform, they proceed one timid little step at a time. They talk of allowing a deduction up to 25 percent.

But if it is wrong and hurtful to tax money given to charity, why tax it at all? Why not give it 100 percent exemption? Robbery isn't made right by taking only 25 percent of the victim's money. It is either all right or all wrong.

The idea of the income tax is not to tax a man's gross income, but to tax what he has left for himself. If he gives a million dollars of his income to benefit America, it should be as tax-free as money the Government spends for the same purpose.

Such tax-free giving should be carefully checked, so the money won't support Russian organizations with a fancy patriotic name. It is American money, taken from Americans for goods made by Americans, and should be returned to America.

Behind the Antilynch Bill

WASHINGTON—The political character of the agitation for a Federal antilynching law is best illustrated by the fact that it comes at the very time the Southern States have all but completed the job of wiping out the crime of lynching.

In the entire country last year only one lynching took place. To show the progress that has been made in putting down mob violence, in the single year of 1892, by contrast, a total of 255 persons met death at the hands of mobs taking the law unto themselves.

Despite this record, Congress is about to consider a bill to make the prevention of lynching a Federal responsibility. It must be apparent that the purposes back of the measure are entirely political.

It is a move that is designed, pure and simple, as an appeal to Negro voters of the East and Middle Western States. Regardless of the merits or demerits of the legislation, Congress would not be considering a bill of the kind under the circumstances except for an eye to Negro voters. Without political motives, laws to correct abuses of human rights are not passed when the abuses no longer exist.

Negroes have long made an issue of lynching, but lynching has by no means been confined to the colored race. In the year cited in which 255 persons were killed by illegal mobs 100 of the victims were white men. Back in the early days of the West lynching was the customary method of inflicting punishment on cattle rustlers and horse thieves.

There was a time, some years ago, when the use of Federal power against lynchers might have been justified by the failure of the states to preserve a more orderly execution of justice. Now that the states have mastered the problem to the extent they have, Federal intervention seems uncalled for.

The pending bill provides heavy penalties in the way of fines against the county or other governmental subdivision responsible for a lynching in its jurisdiction. Most informed persons are agreed that this provision will work to the detriment of the law's enforcement.

Having in mind the penalties to be imposed on their own people, most juries may be expected to give the benefit of doubt to those being prosecuted under the law in order to save the counties the heavy fines involved. A point to be borne in mind is that although the bill would transfer to the Federal courts the prosecution of lynchers, trials would still be held before local juries.

Another factor is that resentment against Federal intervention would complicate rather than ease the problem of securing convictions.

The whole scheme is nothing more than a vote-getting venture, inspired by the election campaign that lies ahead. In the face of the striking progress made by the Southern States in putting down lynching, nothing would be heard of the bill if this were not an election year.

Most of the Republican ardor for the legislation may be marked down to a desire to embarrass the Truman Administration by furthering the Southern revolt against the President's civil rights program. The antilynching bill is a part of this program. But for that and the fact this is an election year we might hear much less of the bill.

They Want To Drop Mr. Truman

WASHINGTON—There are all sorts of whispering and bizarre connivings and speculation these days in the gossip shops of this cave of the winds, to this effect:

"Do you reckon President Truman could be defeated for renomination in the convention?" And, after that: "Do you reckon he might step out himself and not run again?"

The "reckon" and the Southern accent reveal the source—the plotting Southerners, of course, trying to find some escape for guilty consciences confronted very boldly this time by the "put-up-or-shut-up" mandate of the President on extension of civil rights to the South.

But, before this latest unpleasantness and before Henry Wallace stepped out on his own in a third party, the same questions were asked—somewhat timidly, for Mr. Truman was in better standing generally then—in the harsher and clipped accents of left-wing and progressive Democrats. The left-wingers wondered if maybe, somehow or other, their idol Henry Wallace might be thrown in to oust Harry Truman. The progressives, caring not for Mr. Wallace, spoke dreamily of someone else—just who, it was hard to find out, except for the quadrennial clique which regularly shoves forward Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court. Justice Douglas still has his champions, if only some way could be found around Mr. Truman.

And out in California there's a fellow, Bob Kenny, Chairman of PCA, which is sponsoring the Wallace third party, who so recently as PCA's Chicago convention in January had a fanciful little scheme of his own to drop Pilot Truman. First, get Henry Wallace into the Democratic primaries in California and Oregon. Then, going on from there, to predict Mr. Wallace would carry them. Then, going on from there, to speculate that this would so terrify the delegates at the national convention that they would drop Mr. Truman. Then, presto, in comes a prancing "dark horse" behind Henry as a stalking horse to capture the convention in a blaze of glory. Bob Kenny's dark horse would be the same Bill Douglas referred to earlier.

Out of all this, you have the strange spectacle of two directly opposite wings of the hybrid Democratic Party—who only speak ill of each other and never to each other—with the same objective. They, of course, can never get together.

Now the Southerners are hopefully pulling all sorts of names out of the hat. Sen. Harry Byrd, of Virginia, naturally. He'd make a nice-looking candidate, but could carry nothing north of the Mason and Dixon line. And then others—Sen. Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, now 70; Chief Justice Fred Vinson, also of Kentucky; and even Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, though he's said very positively that he wouldn't run and is supposed by everybody to be a Republican. And, oh yes, even Secretary of State George C. Marshall, who said "no" very distinctly many months ago. To such an extent has the catching-at-straws business gone.

Aside from what a confession of weakness the party would make if it dropped Mr. Truman, and what this would do to a party already hopelessly torn asunder, and how little confidence that would give voters, this day dreaming is suddenly punctured when you inquire too closely into another situation. That is, no matter how many names you drag out, you get a fellow either on one side of this civil rights question or on the other, who could do all right in the South but not in the North, and vice versa.

The basic issue that causes all the trouble is still there. It can't be wished away. Dropping Harry Truman doesn't solve it. It's gone beyond that. It either must be met head-on or compromised in some satisfactory way. Mr. Truman seems in no compromising mood. Consequently, some of the more responsible Southerners are talking about a compromise along these lines:

Everybody in the party doesn't have to agree with the President on everything. Therefore, stick by Mr. Truman; let his views on civil rights speak for the Northern wing of the party; let Republicans take the lead legislatively—as they are doing—on the civil rights issue and thus shoulder blame in the South; and let Southern Democrats take their chance of stopping civil rights legislation in Congress with a filibuster, as they always have.

In short, another Whig party, and a typical Whig solution. But try to forget what happened to the Whigs.

FRED OTHMAN

A Bloody Story That Boiled His Blood

WASHINGTON—It doesn't bother me so much when the surplus property boys let U. S. Army narcotics trickle into Shanghai opium dens. I can even put up with 'em labeling a few million dollars' worth of airplanes as junk and letting the Chinese fly 'em away.

But what makes me sore is taking my good red blood, which the Red Cross stabbed out of me a while back, and peddling it as a health tonic in the Chinese black market. Makes my blood boil. What little I've got left.

This tale of dope, blood and misbranded airplanes comes, of all places, from the U. S. Senate Banking Committee and—of all things—in connection with President Truman's appointment of Thomas B. McCabe to the Federal Reserve Board. Never did such an unlikely series of events connect Oriental skullduggery with American high finance. So listen closely:

The gray-haired, easy-smiling McCabe made his fortune as a manufacturer of that household necessity, scott tissue. He also is a banker, financier and leading Republican. Immediately after the war he was made director of the Foreign Liquidation Commission in charge of selling billions in war surpluses all over the world.

So when he came up for confirmation before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, everybody presumed it would be a cut-and-dried procedure. You can imagine McCabe's open-mouthed amazement when he had to listen to a 28-page report prepared by Sen. Charles W. Tobey, of New Hanmpshire, the Chairman, listing monkeyshines involving surplus sales around the world.

Nothing personal, the Senator said. He just wanted to put the information on the record; later, he said, McCabe could make any explanation he wished. And then the Senator called as a witness an enormously tall, bald citizen, Hubert R. Moody, an investigator for the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Moody used to be a detective for the Army and then for the Liquidation Commission, and he it was who turned up my blood in the Chinese black market. Found it in a warehouse, along with the blood plasma contributed by 200,000 other Americans during the war.

This blood, the narcotics, the airplanes, canned goods, sheet steel, and numerous other products went at bargain prices to the Chinese get-rich-quick Charlies, and on credit at that. Star salesman, Moody asserted, was Brig. Gen. Bernard A. Johnson, a one-time Civilian Conservation Corps captain and stock salesman in Minneapolis.

Moody charged that, while Johnson was knocking down millions of dollars' worth of merchandise to the wily Orientals, he also was negotiating for a job with 'em at $35,000 a year—servants, house and car included. If so, he never did get it; at last reports, he was back in the Army as a colonel in charge of transport at Tokyo.

McCabe was Johnson's boss. And, according to Moody, tried to protect him when the airplane business threatened to become public.

It turned out, Moody charged, that Johnson's staff mislabeled 151 airplanes as "junk" and sold 'em to an airplane company belonging to the brother of the Chinese premier. Many of these pieces of shiny junk the Chinese flew immediately off the field. Only the consignment contained 11 big B-25 bombers, all listed as junk.

When news of that sale became public, the Communists kicked at our selling warplanes to the Chinese. Moody said that McCabe then ordered those particular planes actually turned into junk. He had their tails chopped off, Moody said.

"Here's a picture," said Sen. Tobey, showing an enlarged photograph of a giant airship on a Chinese field, with her tail sawed off and crashing to the earth.

McCabe explains next week. I'll be there. I want to learn more about my blood.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

What About Sen. Thomas' Immunity?

For any bearing that it may have on the speculation of Sen. Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, a Democrat, of course, I offer information. Thomas has defied his colleague, Sen. Homer Ferguson, of Michigan, to "investigate" his gambling in commodities. This form of trade was condemned by President Truman as a factor contributing to the cost of food and he seemed to think it a conscienceless business until he learned that the vice had claimed victims in his own political and social household.

When a statesman on the Senate Committee on Agriculture gambles on agricultural products he has an advantage comparable to that of a card player who brings his own deck and knows how to read the backs.

Sen. Thomas based his refusal to testify on his "congressional immunity," and there has been a show of unreasonable courtesy toward him.

There is no "immunity" which excuses any member of Congress from giving testimony in a congressional inquiry and this fellow is no more entitled to special consideration than the 10 Hollywood witnesses who are up for contempt and face a year in prison.

On immunity, the Constitution says members of the Senate and House "shall, in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses and going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place."

Nobody has threatened to pinch Sen. Thomas for anything, so the first part of this passage on immunities does not apply. And nobody is trying to question him about anything he said in Congress so that immunity is not involved.

If Sen. Ferguson and the rest of them let Thomas get away with this, their position will be that Senators are above the same laws that have been invoked in recent weeks to punish the same sort of refusal by other suspected persons.

Last October, when the House Committee on Un-American Activities was hearing a lot of executives of the movie industry, a woman's voice telephoned the Committee's Chief Investigator, Robert Stripling, to say that Sen. Thomas, of Oklahoma, desired that a considerate reception be given to one Morris Rosner, who would soon call. Morris Rosner did call, introduced himself as Mickey Rosner and said he represented Louis B. Mayer, summoned as a witness. Mayer desired to be excused because his brother was gravely ill and because, furthermore, he had no information that could not be as readily given by others in his employ.

The Committee was made suspicious by Rosner's manners and therefore investigated him and got a report which caused the members to turn down Mayer's request. Mayer's testimony was not vital and if he had sent a more suitable representative he probably would have been excused. With that Hollywood genius for seeking out the most inappropriate person for the job in hand, however, Mayer had picked an underworld character with an FBI record who had chiseled into the Lindbergh kidnaping inquiry, obtained $2,500 "to make proper contacts" and produced no valuable information.

I thought it strange that Sen. Thomas, a country Senator, should be so chummy with this fellow and I still thought so after I got a tip that for seven or eight years Rosner had made Thomas' office a sort of hangout, a nice front for a lobbyist and fixer in Washington. He was reputed to enjoy the confidence and esteem of Sen. Thomas and judging by the fact that Thomas "sent him in" with the Committee on Un-American Activities, and for other reasons, I would think he did.

During the hearings on the Wool Products Labeling Act in 1939, Rosner showed up as the Washington lobbyist of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, who were against it. He had been hired in New York and sent to Washington, where the sign on his door read "Washington Office, National Association of Wool Manufacturers, Morris Rosner, Manager."

Rosner showed up at several of the hearings, sometimes distributing "press releases," and he buttonholed statesmen, telling them that he was a very big wool fellow and that this law would harm the wool industry generally. His influence, if any, was enhanced by the fact that he was in and out of the office of Sen. Thomas, of Oklahoma, a member of the committee in charge of the bill. He seemed to have a desk there.

Nevertheless, the act passed.

During the war Rosner engaged in highly patriotic activities in the promotion of profitable war industries in Washington. One way or another, he apparently made a great deal of money. The FBI report said he frequented the race tracks near Washington and bet them higher than a cat's back. Last Fall he was living at the Shoreham, which is no culvert or park bench.

In December, however, when I telephoned him last, he had checked out for the Winter social season in Miami Beach.

J. B. Wilson, of McKinley, Wyo., Secretary of the Wyoming Wool Growers' Association, who lobbied for the Wool Products Labeling Bill in 1939, recalls Rosner well. He recalls Mickey's name on the Washington door of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, but says "his name was subsequently taken off the door."

Senators, you take it from here and let us have no nonsense about immunities.

THE QUESTION:

Would you like to visit the new State Park on Jekyll Island?

THE ANSWERS:

MRS. VAN F. LEACH, 101 Clarendon Ave., Avondale, housewife—Oh! My! I certainly would. Just last night, I made inquiry for five Decatur High boys who want to spend their Spring vacations there. The school girls go to New York by bus each year, so the boys would like a trip, too. It's so close to our Georgia coast; I believe it will be used by the people here and out-of-State. I'm curious to know how dangerous the wild boars will be to visitors.

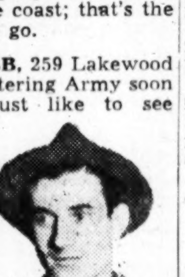
W. L. McCONNELL, 222 E. Virginia Ave., College Park, railway rate clerk—I would, yes. It's been almost impossible heretofore for a person of moderate circumstances to take advantage of the recreational facilities of the pleasure resort. Now that the State is taking it over, I believe Jekyll's going to be put in the reach of a greater number of people, not only Georgians, but from other States as well.

MRS. J. M. BUFFINGTON, Route 2, College Park, housewife—My daughter is a home demonstration agent. When Gov. Thompson outlined the project at their State meet, she was really enthused—said it was the finest thing he's done. She thinks it would be a grand place for the 4-H Club Summer camp. Before, Chapman Springs was the only place the boys and girls could go. With a waiting list—the place was always packed and jammed. Jekyll's Island's been the rich men's playhouse. Lot of people think the State is sinking a lot of money in it, but it gives the common man a chance to go to a place that otherwise he couldn't afford.

MRS. HORACE BURGAMY, 111 Carlton Way, Macon, housewife—I have thought I might like to visit the park, but I don't know that I'll get to visit it this Summer. It's been a showplace for millionaires. I'd like to see the homes. I'd merely be going as a tourist if I went. I've already had my vacation this year. We've just come back from the West.

LEE DAUGHTRIDGE, JR., 3246 Mathieson Dr., N. E., plant manager—Well—I would like to. I haven't read too much about it. It would be an interesting trip if I had the money and the time. It's a good thing to let the common people have the advantages of such a vacation spot. I know my family would enjoy the recreational advantages of the park when we wouldn't have to worry so much about the expense.

MRS. J. B. HOLLAND, 217 Madison St., College Park, housewife—Yes. I'd just like to go and see what it's all about. Sightseeing, mostly, unless I went for a vacation. Then, I'd take it easy; go swimming; enjoy the sunshine. That's what I'd call a vacation. I'd really like to see how the rich people lived. I've never been to the coast; that's the reason I'd like to go.



HAROLD WEBB, 259 Lakewood Ave., S. W., re-entering Army soon—I'd like it! Just like to see what's down there for one thing. I noticed where Thompson was having some kind of a debate about what to do with Jekyll—whether to make it a State park or not. I've never been to a place like that. I'd like to hunt the wild boars. That'd be something new.

Neither political outfit claims George Washington, because George was a Federalist. So was John Adams and after that they gave the works back to the taxidermist who stuffed the dodo bird.

There never was another Federalist in our political history. The party just folded up like a trick tent in the Army.

I repeat my summary of George's extravagance in heaving a silver dollar across the Rappahannock. He was taking no more chances than a bartender mixing himself a drink. George's picture was on the dollar and he owned both sides of the river.

The Real Crisis Draws Nearer

WASHINGTON—The struggle is over, and the terror is already beginning in Prague. Yet there is still one important fact to note about the death of freedom in Czechoslovakia. The ruthless Communist power play which has just been executed with such precision was actually prepared in broad outline in Moscow during the war, nearly five years ago.

The Communists overwhelmed the non-Communist majority of Czechs for a very simple reason—they already controlled every real source of power in the state. They obtained this control almost wholly by the efforts of two non-Communists, the Minister of War, Gen. Ludvik Svoboda, and the Deputy Premier and newly reinstated Socialist leader, Dr. Szdenek Fierlinger. These men acted, in effect, as agents of the Kremlin.

No one knows now, and perhaps no one will ever know, what traps the Kremlin or what inducements the Kremlin offered to Fierlinger and Svoboda, a career diplomat and a career soldier with decades of service behind them. But it is very definitely known that Fierlinger and Svoboda were captured, in wartime, when Svoboda commanded the Czech troops with the Red Army, and Fierlinger was the Czech government-in-exile ambassador to Moscow.

IN THE MOMENT of the German collapse, at the end of the war, members of the Czech government-in-exile met the Czech Communists at the little town of Kosice, to establish a new government. The Benes group had expected to make no great concessions to the Communists. But at Kosice, they found an atmosphere of intrigue and intimidation. Fierlinger was the evil genius of the meeting.

As a direct outcome of Fierlinger's efforts, the War Ministry went to Svoboda; the crucial Ministries of Interior, Education and Information went to overt Communists, and of course Fierlinger himself entered the government in a strong position. The government was hardly formed before Svoboda began to extend his infiltration effort to the Czech army as a whole, handing the vital secret intelligence bodily over to the Communists. At the Interior Department, Communist Minister Nosek transformed the police into an organ of the Communist party.

There is a moral to this story for those who advocate friendly negotiation with the Soviets. Of what use are negotiations with a government which blandly promises one thing and secretly plots the opposite? There is also a warning. The fall of Czechoslovakia has not altered the world power balance. But the brutal methods employed and the suddenness of the coup have disclosed an important alteration in the Kremlin's timetable. It is not impossible that the world crisis will reach the acute and decisive stage in the next few months.

U.S. Re-entry in Flour Market Sends Grains Up

CHICAGO, March 4—(AP)—Government re-entry into the flour market on a large scale sparked an upturn in wheat on the Board of Trade today. Other grains also advanced, largely in sympathy with the bread cereal action. Trading was active.

Agriculture Secretary Anderson announced the Government wanted offers on flour equal to 9,300,000 bushels of wheat. It was the first Government move to buy either wheat or flour in volume since the grain price break started on Feb. 4.

The May wheat contract opened at $2.50-2.52⅝, the latter price representing a 10-cent daily limit advance. It immediately retreated and did not get up to the limit again. However, May continued strong all day while gains in new crop wheat amounted to only two or three cents.

Wheat closed 2½-6¾ higher, May $2.48¾-2.49; corn was ½ lower to 1½ higher, May $2.28¼-2.28; oats were ⅜-1⅜ higher, May $1.16-1.16¼; and soybeans were 2½ to seven cents higher, March $3.76.

Traders said very little of the buying in wheat could be considered commercial in nature. Before any mill buying develops, it was said, it would be necessary to see whether the Government actually purchases the flour. Flour prices are geared to wheat, and today's wheat price advance may make the Government shy away from buying flour, traders said.

Another factor in the wheat strength was small receipts of wheat at major markets. Arrivals at 12 principal interior terminals amounted to 296,000 bushels, against 418,000 bushels a week ago and 1,434,000 bushels a year ago. Corn and oats receipts also were sharply lower.

More heavy snow was received in the Western Kansas Winter wheat area. Light snow was reported in the Texas Panhandle and in Colorado. This area has obtained excellent moisture recently, a factor in restraining gains in new crop wheat contracts. Grain experts said the crop outlook has greatly improved in the past two or three weeks.

April export allocations of 30,517,000 bushels, announced overnight, were the smallest for any month in more than a year. Furthermore, a good part of the wheat to meet these allocations already has been purchased. The crop year goal of 450,000,000 bushels of wheat remains unchanged.

A good demand from the East was reported for cash corn, although shipping sales from here totaled only 10,000 bushels. However, cash handlers said few local elevator interests were willing to offer corn to the East in view of the small offerings from the country. Only 27 cars of corn arrived here today.

Some short-covering developed in May oats. In the spot market No. 2 white oats, deliverable on May contracts, sold at $1.38½, or 22 cents higher than the May future.

Downward Drift Rules in Day's Stock Deals

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—Downward tendencies prevailed in today's stock market for the first time since last Friday.

Scattered leaders, however, achieved a certain amount of progress. Bullish contingents also derived some comfort from the fact that liquidation was negligible throughout. Transfers of 580,000 shares compared with 760,000 Wednesday. It was the smallest 5-hour volume since Sept. 24.

A few oils continued to edge forward on the profits outlook in this field and talk of another boost in crude prices. Professional bidding here and there also was based on the hope for an extension of the recent technical recovery from the sharp February relapse.

Commission house clients stood aside or trimmed accounts because of persistent skepticism regarding confusing international affairs, business taxes and wages.

Prices improved here and there at the close but losses of fractions to a point or more held a majority. An early bulge in commodities failed to stimulate securities.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .3 of a point at 61.3, equalling the dip of last Thursday. The market was the second narrowest for a full session since Jan. 2 of 901 issues registering, 400 fell, 266 rose and 235 were unchanged.

The bond market drifted irregularly lower today. Declines were for the most part small in the domestic list and there were gainers in all major groups. Foreign dollar bonds, especially those of Denmark, were again under pressure.

In the curb earnings and recapitalization plans bolstered Marion Power Shovel. In front were Humble Oil, Creole Petroleum and Woodley Petroleum. Cities Service, Kaiser-Frazer and American Cities Power eased. Turnover here was 170,000 shares versus 180,000 yesterday.

Short Covering Trims N. O. Cotton Advance

NEW ORLEANS, March 4—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced as much as $3.05 a bale here today under heavy short covering and trade buying before long realizing pared the gain. Closing prices were steady, $1.45 to $1.75 a bale higher.

Trading was active and most of the buying was encouraged by the sharp rise in the grain market. Chicago wired that the rise there was due to reports that the Government shortly would resume buying of wheat for export.

Shorts covered extensively and mills and spot houses were credited with considerable buying, the latter taking contracts because of the recent pickup in exports.

The weather continued unfavorable for new crop preparation. One private forecast said that farmers intend to plant 22,200,000 acres to cotton, an increase of approximately 3 percent over last season.

N. Y. Cotton Closes Up $1.20-$2.25 a Bale

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—Cotton futures closed $1.20 to $2.25 a bale higher today.

Strength in grain markets stimulated considerable covering in early cotton dealings. Stop-loss buying was touched off, and the market rallied $3.40 a bale before encountering increased profit-taking and hedging which brought partial recessions. The market thereafter moved in a narrow range, with further rallying tendencies discouraged by realizing sales.

Hedging was believed to be partly against lower grades of cotton in the Southwest. Further liquidation was stimulated in nearby March on issuance of 33 March transferable notices.

Certificated cotton stocks increased 5,453 bales to a new high for the current move at 76,581 bales.

There were no new developments on the foreign aid programs. Traders expected them to stimulate exports and create a tight situation in spot cotton supplies unless there is undue delay in getting the programs into operation.

Insurance On Upswing-Cole

If business follows the lead of the insurance industry, there is no depression likely any time soon, Thomas W. Cole, Vice President of the Travelers Insurance Company, declared here Wednesday.

Cole, who is in Atlanta to discuss plans for his Company's operation with Travelers representatives here, said the insurance industry is "only beginning to scratch the surface" of its unlimited potentialities.

"We have more insurance policies in force now than ever before in history," he said. "And we are only beginning." He said Americans now are realizing what insurance means to them in planning their lives.

The insurance executive, who is in charge of life, accident and group insurance for the Travelers Company, will address a group of insurance men at a luncheon at 12:30 p. m., today in the Sky Room of the Ansley Hotel.

Census Director AsksCo-operation Of Manufacturers

J. C. Capt, Director of the U. S. Bureau of the Census, Thursday urged all manufacturers in Atlanta and Georgia to fill out and return to the Bureau of the Census the forms which will be used in compiling the Census of Manufacturers.

"Only through the Census of Manufacturers can we get a full picture of manufacturing in the country today," Capt said in an interview here. "It is to the manufacturers' advantage to fill out the forms and return them as soon as possible. No manufacturer need fear that private information will be revealed to the public, as there is a severe penalty for any member of the Census Bureau who commits this violation."

MRS. LAMARRE:

Meyers Admired Her Work

WASHINGTON, March 4—(UP) While Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers winked and smirked at his lawyers, the woman he claims was his mistress told a Federal Jury Thursday that he liked her secretarial work so much he once gave her a free train trip from Ohio to California.

The train ride episode was recited by Mrs. Mildred Lamarre, a 35-year-old brunette whose husband, Bleriot, is the key prosecution witness in Meyers' subornation of perjury trial.

The Government called her to back up her husband's story that Meyers induced him to lie under oath to a Senate subcommittee about their wartime business relations.

Lamarre previously had testified that Meyers made him "dummy" President of the Aviation Electric Company, Vandalia, Ohio, and then milked the Company of $150,000 through an elaborate system of kickbacks and false bookkeeping entries.

Meyers' defense was that he founded the Company and made Lamarre its President only as a favor to the young man because he (Meyers) and Mrs. Lamarre had been lovers for years.

Under direct Government examination, Mrs. Lamarre got only about half-way through the story of her own relations with the General before the trial adjourned until Friday afternoon.

Bail Hearing Set Today On Red 'Strikers'

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—A Federal judge Thursday declined to release from Ellis Island three of four alleged ailen Communists on a "hunger strike," But said he would act Friday on their requests for bail.

Earlier W. Frank Watkins, immigration District Director, said the four men had been moved to the Public Health Service Hospital on Ellis Island for observation.

Watkins said the transfer was to determine their condition after the "so-called hunger strike" and added:

"All four men have been partaking regularly of drinking water."

The men who have said they would not eat until they are granted release under bail are Gerhart Eisler, who has been called the Nation's "No. 1 Communist"; John C. Williams, Labor Secretary of the Communist Party; Ferdinand C. Smith, Secretary of the CIO National Maritime Union, and Charles A. Doyle, Vice President of the United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers (CIO).

All are held pending deportation proceedings.

ADD A YAM TO HOME PERILS

RAVENNA, Ohio, March 4 (AP)—A yam that was bursting with calories was added to the list of household perils here Thursday.

Mrs. Alfred Swauger could attest to the dangers of baking sweet potatoes. She was recovering from injuries received when one of the tubers in her kitchen bake-oven exploded and struck her in the face.

Negro Votes Target Of Rights Bill---Stennis

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—Sen. Stennis, Democrat, Mississippi, said Thursday the current cry for new civil rights laws is "a political fraud," aimed shamelessly at the Negro vote.

In his first Senate speech, Stennis also said the agitation is part of a plan "to gradually liquidate and totally blot out the great American principles of self-government."

"Instead of afflicting the people with more bureaus and a greatly extended police power," Stennis argued, Congress should start "putting the Government back where it belongs—back in the county courthouses, back in the hands of the people."

Stennis' speech dealt with President Truman's proposals for anti-lynching, anti-poll tax and fair employment practices legislation. He said leaders of both parties have decreed that "for political reasons these bills must pass."

He called it "a brazen effort to capture the vote of the misguided and misled rank and file Negro in the 1948 elections."

Sen. Maybank, Democrat, South Carolina, told his colleagues that Stennis' was "one of the greatest state rights speeches ever made." Maybank called it "clear, constitutional and masterful."

Stennis was particularly critical of the Fair Employment Practices Bill, outlawing any discrimination in employment. He called it "contrary to my conception of the God- and constitutionally protected rights of a free citizen."

"If I wanted to convert a free government into a police state, I would start by enacting the FEPC bill," he said.

Stennis, formerly a county judge, was elected last November to succeed the late Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo.

The FEPC bill was also attacked Thursday by Sens. Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, and Hill, Democrat, Alabama. They filed a minority report of the Senate Labor Committee saying the bill would: encourage Communism, restrict private enterprise and prove to be unworkable, unconstitutional and unjustified.

A majority of the Committee has approved the bill.

One of the President's proposals strikes at segregation in travel. In this connection, the Interstate Commerce Commission Thursday dismissed a $15,000 damage action brought against the Southern Railway Company by three Negroes.

The three said they bought seats from New York to New Orleans on "The Southerner," a de luxe coach train, and were moved into a "Jim Crow" car after the train passed Washington.

They contended the new accommodations were inferior, but the ICC held they were "not substantially different from those furnished white passengers."

The ICC has jurisdiction in cases alleging improper operation of a railroad and may award damages.

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Mother Teaches Kindness Lesson

By DORIS LOCKERMAN,
Woman's News Editor

Every school community has a problem family or so.

This one is a great, burgeoning brood of 12 youngsters who are pretty and quick and sometimes merry . . . but always hungry and rag-tag and gaunt. There are one or two in every grade, it seems.

Last week the teacher of a primary grade opened her door to admit the mother of the tribe. She was neat and quiet and she asked permission to address the class for a minute. The teacher granted it.

The mother smiled pleasantly and said good morning and then called two little girls by name and asked them to stand.

The little girls leaped to their feet.

The mother looked at them firmly.

"Thank you," she said at last, "I just wanted to see how children were supposed to dress for the third grade. You know, my little girl is in your class, and she wouldn't come to school today at all. She is at home crying. She said you two had laughed at her clothes and said they weren't good enough for your grade."

Then, with the youngsters still standing, she nodded to the teacher, turned on her heel and left.

The story gives me spinal chills every time I think of it.

(H) Air Waves

Before long, life is going to be entirely painless.

Now they have installed radios in hair-drying machines in beauty shops so customers can listen to their favorite soap opera instead of that mild tornado that rushes from most drying apparatuses.

It works this way. An appliance that looks like a cross between a stethescope and a telephone operator's headpiece is fitted to the customer's waved head and plugged into a portable radio. The program chosen is channeled straight to ear plugs instead of out into the room. One drying customer can hear Club Matinee while another is being convinced that Life Can Be Beautiful.

It's all experimental, and Jay Wrenn, proprietor of Wrenn's House of Beauty, where it is being tried, says so far all reactions have been entirely favorable.

Just music to the ears, he said.

This is the way to make tea: Take the kettle to the pot . . . and often.

Afternoon Tea Chats Increasing in Popularity

By SALLY SAVER

A wordly man of our acquaintance apologized for a brusque departure from a meeting the other day, explaining:

"I've got to get home. My wife and I have a little habit of fixing tea every afternoon at five, and I'm beginning to look forward to it. It is just about the only chance we have to sum the day up, and figure out the next one."

Tea, he said. Not cocktails, but tea. And an American man planing his afternoon around it.

It is really a trend. You hear the phrase, "Please drop by and have tea with us," more and more from unaccustomed tongues.

It brings up visions of warm firesides, easy chairs, gracious tables, relaxed conversation, ease, and . . . yes, peace. It suggests the romantic names of teas, green teas and black teas, and red leaf teas, some of them scented with jasmine, some with the flavor of peaches, and some even with a faint scent of azaleas.

You think of tables set in romantic gardens, of round Victorian tables, swathed in velvet or linen cloths that touch the floor, for the tea cloth of tradition was often a masterpiece of threadwork, embroidery or lace.

You think, nowadays, of bare pine tables waxed to a shining patina, a checked cotton cloth or simply colorful cups and saucers of pottery held in the hand with no table at all.

You see, in your own imagination, tin canisters or tortoise shell caddies with silver measuring spoons to scoop out the portions of your favorite blend. The teapot may be a chased silver heirloom, or a newer version in pottery, with a deep well holding the grounds for easy removal. The only difference is aesthetic.

There is, nearby, a steaming tea kettle whistling with boiling water. That is the only prop you cannot do without if you really hope for fine tea. The anemic habit of many restaurateurs to serve a cup of mildly warm water with a lonely teabag beside it, is not only poor refreshment, but it is poor business.

The kettle of water must be boiling furiously to create the gentle brew you have learned to love.

The old idea of taking the kettle to the pot has never been improved. Tea has to be in hot water for a few minutes to really give out its best fragrance.

And another thing. Don't think that because iced tea is improved with lemon, that the English are so backward in their taste for cream. Try cream and sugar with hot tea, and become a convert.

PIN MISSING

Could a child now six possibly have a small safety pin in his body which he may have swallowed when he was one and one-half years old? One X-ray at the time did not show anything. The child is fairly well, but never has much appetite, occasionally nosebleed. I am worried.

(MRS. B. H.)

Answer — Unlikely. If the child really swallowed the pin chances are that it was expelled in fecal mass within 48 hours.

Dr. C. D. Bowdoin, State Epidemiologist; Mrs. Charles Center, Health Chairman, National Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. Fred Knight, President, Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, and Dr. T. F. Sellers, Director, State Department of Health, confer on Georgia's need for Federal aid to health.

TO AID GEORGIA HEALTH

State PTA To Support Federal Health Bill

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

There was that specter of the disappearing health worker . . . the State professional servant that Georgia does not reward with retirement benefits . . . standing athwart an otherwise hopeful meeting Thursday between the State Department of Public Health and the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. Fred Knight, State President of the Georgia Congress; Mrs. Charles Center, National Health Chairman of the National Congress, and Mrs. Douglas Robertson, called upon Dr. T. F. Sellers, Health Department Director, to offer their services to aid in public health, particularly among the children of school age.

They had special reference to the pending Health Services Act, which has already been backed by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, which, if it pleases, will augment present State health facilities and offer training opportunities for new staff members, with Federal grants-in-aid.

Dr. C. D. Bowdoin, Director of the Health Department, and Miss Annie Taylor, Director of Dental Health Services, sat in on the meeting. They had just returned from a conference of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers in Chicago, where the bill was urged to aid the 40,000,000 persons in America who live in areas not served by local public health units.

FAVORS BILL

Dr. Sellers, who says Georgia needs Federal aid to augment its services, and especially to establish permanent training centers, admitted he was in a contradictory position regarding the bill.

"I am completely in favor of it," he emphasized. "It is written to finance preventive medicine, and that is this Department's mandate. There are still many counties in Georgia that for some reason or other have not been able to participate in our program, though serving them through regional offices where we can. We need it to aid maternal and child welfare work, to augment our immunization and sanitation programs, to work toward dental education, but here is the rub:

"We can't get the people. Many Georgia counties are ready to do their share toward a health center, but we can't staff them. We need 50 additional doctors, 200 additional nurses, and we have openings for 15 dentists immediately.

"We can't get them because no one will give up a profitable private practice and make a career of public health, unless there is an assurance that they can retire with security in their old age."

"We are in the wry spot already of having a well-developed health program threatened with sabotage by circumstances. Our neighboring states already pay higher salaries and have retirement benefits. When this Federal bill passes . . . and of course I hope it does . . . we will be in even a worse position from a competitive point of view." There aren't enough trained health people in the country.

The Parent-Teachers Association, which has adopted health as the second plank in its platform, has long sought to mold public understanding of community health programs.

In planned programs through local chapters, Mrs. Knight said, the word on the pending health bill will be spread and the P-TAs will likewise try to teach people to use the facilities now at their service in something more than a passive way.

Rug Needed In Room, Says Author

The South, with its natural respect for inherited treasures, is overlooking opportunity for exciting household decorating by suspecting modern trends as gauche and in bad taste.

Florence B. Terhune, author of "Decorating For You," visited Atlanta Thursday as the guest of Rich's, in her capacity as manager of the Educational and Home Service Bureau of Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, and remarked that modern architecture is growing in acceptance everywhere, and modern furnishings have improved steadily until some of them are quite classic in feeling.

Miss Terhune believes that each homemaker should be her own decorator (with advice from professionals, she interpolated), and thinks that girls should begin in grammar school and continue through college with the study of homemaking and home decoration. She would like to see them learn the dynamics of color and light, balance, combinations of weight and masses, as well as perfecting such practical techniques as making slip covers and ruffling curtains.

As a representative of a rug company, Miss Terhune remarked that walls and windows and rugs were much more important in a room than furniture itself,

"To paraphrase somebody else," she said, "you can't slip-cover a rug."

She said there is a trend away from the blue school, to the greens and yellow-greens, with copper roses and warm reds nosing out of the cyclamen red series in decorating. Monochromatic color schemes, she said, are fatal to cheer. They dullen the soul with their monotory.

The trend in rugs is toward textured weaves and effects, and for wall-to-wall carpeting in those weaves. With five years' production lost, the rug makers are working overtime to cover the floors of America, both in business and private domains.

Tasty Dishes Made With Applesauce

If you are one to whom applesauce is a challenging idea for mixing-and-matching, why not quicken the whole process by using frozen applesauce available in your store? Its flavor is sharp and piquant, a hard thing to achieve when you try to cook it yourself.

Smart cooks are using applesauce over ice cream as a sundae, with a sprinkling of nutmeg over the whole thing. Perfect for eggnog ice cream, for instance.

There are a dozen other ways to use it, of course, beside the old tried-and-true recipes like applesauce cake, and tarts and applesauce with whipped cream topping.

Try these ideas:

Pancakes—One cup of applesauce added to any pancake recipe before frying, or spread over the top and rolled like crepe suzettes.

Waffles — Sprinkle chopped bits of uncooked bacon on the waffle iron before putting in batter. Pour on batter and bake. Spread with apple butter or applesauce and serve immediately.

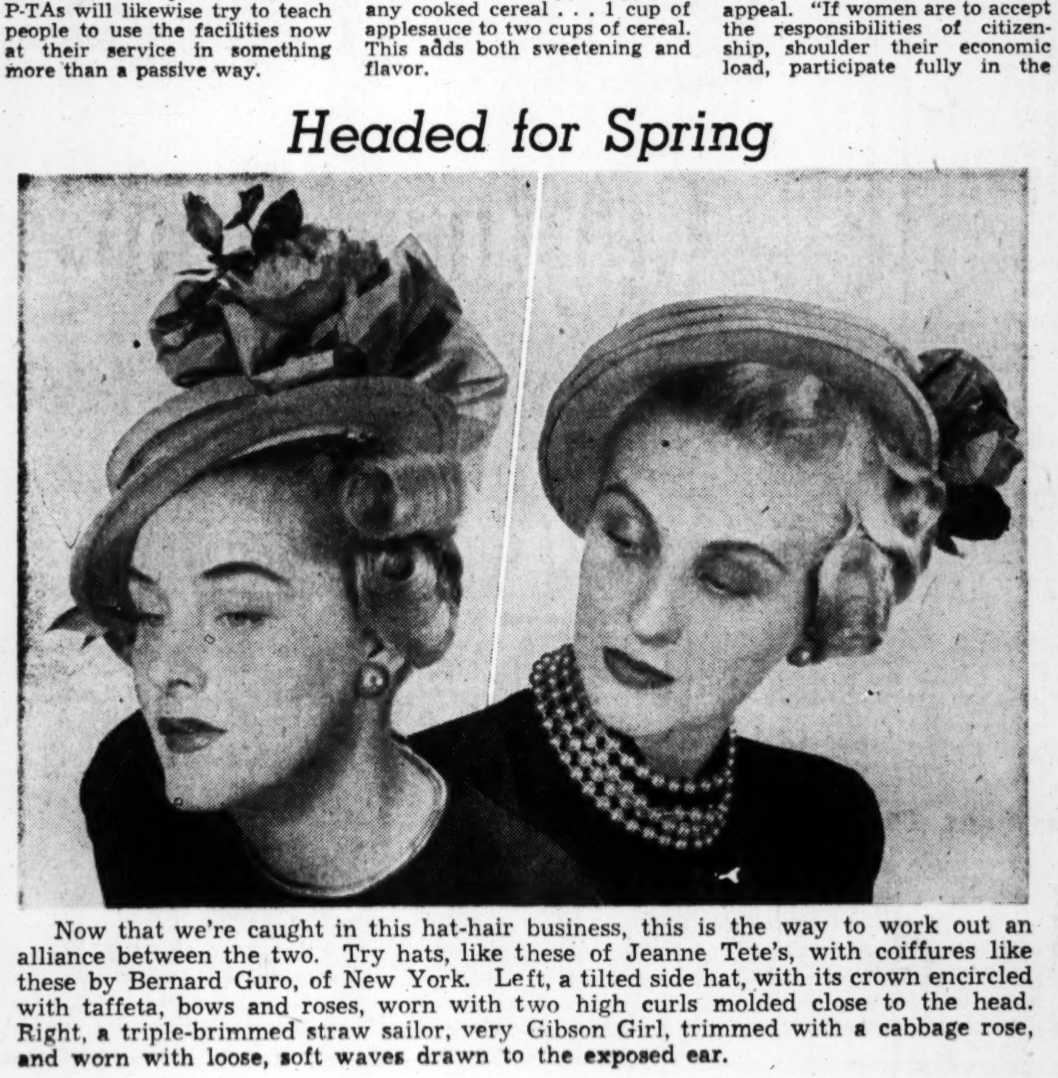
Cornbread—Place 2 cups yellow cornmeal, ¼ cup sugar, 2 cups sour milk and 2 tablespoons shortening in upper part of double boiler. Cook for 10 minutes. Cool. Add beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in 1 tablespoon water, 1½ teaspoon salt and 1 cup applesauce. Bake 40 minutes in loaf pan at 400 degrees.

Muffins—Sift together 2 cups flour, ½ cup sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Add 1 beaten egg, 1 cup milk, 4 tablespoons salad oil and 1 cup grated apple. Mix and bake 15 to 20 minutes in muffin tins at 425 degrees.

Coffee Cake—Place rows of thinly sliced apple, including peeling, or two cups applesauce, across the top of any favorite coffee cake recipe, sprinkling with a little sugar and cinnamon and dotting with butter. Bake as usual.

Cereal—Add chopped apple to any cooked cereal . . . 1 cup of applesauce to two cups of cereal. This adds both sweetening and flavor.

Headed for Spring



Now that we're caught in this hat-hair business, this is the way to work out an alliance between the two. Try hats, like these of Jeanne Tete's, with coiffures like these by Bernard Guro, of New York. Left, a tilted side hat, with its crown encircled with taffeta, bows and roses, worn with two high curls molded close to the head. Right, a triple-brimmed straw sailor, very Gibson Girl, trimmed with a cabbage rose, and worn with loose, soft waves drawn to the exposed ear.

A Woman's World

NECESSARY TO STABILIZE EMPLOYMENT

National BPWC Asks Legislation To Guarantee Equal Pay for Equal Work

By LENNA McKINLEY

The women of this country have set out to get "equal pay for equal work" or know the reason why.

For the first time in history, they received, during the war years, salaries commensurate with their abilities, regardless of their sex.

But there has been an alarming trend in employment since cessation of hostilities, they feel. With the release of women from jobs where they had equal pay with men, there is a tendency to return to prewar inequalities resulting in lower wages for women generally.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, 120,000 strong, has taken a firm stand on the principle of "equal pay for equal work," and is concentrating its strength on trying to get adequate legislation in Congress for the protection of women wage-earners.

In a recent appeal made to Subcommittee No. 4, House Committee on Education and Labor, Miss Olive H. Huston, Executive Secretary of BPWC, presented the following arguments to carry the point taken by that organizaiton:

"Lower wages for women for the same work done are detrimental to standards of living of women workers, who constitute one-third of our total labor force," she said. "Experience of our members bears out surveys of the Women's Bureau wherein it has been revealed that, of employed women, 75 to 80 percent must earn their living and support dependents.

"The principle of equal pay for equal work is the concern not only of millions of women workers, but of men as well, since inequality in the wage structure promotes price cutting, depresses the labor market, and thereby unbalances the whole economic system.

IMPEDES SECURITY

"Due to war casualties, women are carrying on an increasingly heavy economic burden," she pointed out. "The removal of differences in pay between men and women will improve the level of purchasing power for millions of women. It is important to note that while women are paid less, there is no corresponding differential in prices on consumer goods, thereby increasing the economic hardship for women who with increasing frequency carry responsibilities as heads of families. These discriminations impede family security and the elevation of living standards."

Taking the stand that, since improvement in methods and new processes have freed men and women alike from drudgery that has, in the past, created differences in the tasks assigned to men and women, the BPWC representative insisted that all workers will have greater job security if the pay status can be predicated on the basis of merit without discrimination because of sex. These discriminations, she believes, hinder the maximum utilization of available labor resourses and plant capacity so needed if employment opportunities are to be available for all our people, and the production necessary for our national and international obligations is to be maintained.

"Our organization has long advocated the full partnership of men and women, particularly in these troubled times, in working out the solution of today's problems," she emphasized in her appeal. "If women are to accept the responsibilities of citizenship, shoulder their economic load, participate fully in the thinking and action commensurate with today's needs, it is vital that the pseudo barriers in competition between women and men be removed.

"When women are used as a means of depressing wage and salary levels, and must compete on the basis of being 'cheaper labor,' the natural psychological effort is to retard the development of peak skills, since there is no incentive to further progress or recognition," she pointed out.

Mrs. Mamie K. Taylor, President of the Georgia Federation of BPWC, says that the State organization is backing up National BPWC in urging Congressmen to consider favorable action on this measure, which all members of the organization feel so vitally necessary to stabilized employment and the upbuilding of national income.

EXPERT ADVISES:

Check Weight Regularly

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Under the heading of things subject to change without notice, add—weight. That is, you don't notice it much. The pounds sneak on and it comes as such a shock when someone remarks how well you look with more weight. More weight! You'd been blaming the cleaner for shrinking those last two dresses.

Any slight addition to regular eating habits pushes weight up. So for one reason and another, it's a good plan to weigh fairly regularly. That keeps you alert to the danger of graduating to a larger size. It can keep you from drifting along until you are 10 pounds or 20 over the normal for your height and structure. Twenty percent above normal weight is obesity.

It's so much easier to take off three pounds than it is 10. But never mind, it's still easier to take off 10 extra pounds than it is 20. Where to start? At the next meal . . . with fats. First cut down on the visible fats—the butter, cream, mayonnaise, French dressing, gravy and the fat part of the meat. Just trimming fats may be enough to cut your calories to the point you'll lose the extra pounds.

You can easily lose 10 pounds without going on a diet. One overweight wrote that she lowered her weight simply by streamlining her dinner. She ate a good breakfast and a good lunch, but cut her usual big dinner in half. She left off the bread and butter and desserts, and avoided some of the fats.

A business girl stopped the rising tide in weight by getting out of the habit of taking a chocolate soda at 4:00. She drank a glass of buttermilk instead . . . thus saving 300-plus calories.

Many a reducer turns the trend of the scales by cutting out desserts and pastries. In fact, simply omitting desserts is to my notion the easiest way to lose weight. You may have a different notion.

EENIE MEENIE, MINIE, MO..

Any slight change in regular eating habits that cuts calories below the amount used daily will force the weight trend down. For example, if you are in the habit of eating two slices of bread and butter per meal, and cut down to one, you are subtracting at least 200 calories from the daily diet. If those calories are below the number required, you will lose a good fourth pound a week.

You can make a big dent in the calories by having only one starchy food with a meal. When you eat a baked potato, skip the bread. If you have cake for dessert, then no bread or potatoes with that meal. It works like a charm.

It's not dieting, but weight slides down.

League of Women Voters Answers Queries on WCON

Four members of the Georgia League of Women Voters put themselves on the spot Thursday by volunteering to answer any question from the public pertaining to the work of that organization.

But they did not get caught out, not once.

Mrs. Edward Vinson, Editor of the "Georgia Voter," and Mrs. N. F. Wolfe, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Harris, Jr., and Mrs. Dennis Evans, members of the Georgia League's Radio Committee, lasted out 30 minutes of rapid-fire questions which came in from women all over the city, in WCON's "Hello Georgia" program, directed by Les Henrikson.

Henrikson started the ball rolling by wanting to know if lots of people did not ask them, "Why don't you women stay out of politics?"

"No, they don't," a member shot back. "They know we don't support any candidate, as an organization. People familiar with our work think we are a really worthwhile group."

Then the queries began to pour in over the telephone.

"Where do we register?" one woman wanted to know. The answer was, "At your County Courthouse. By May 2, if you live in Fulton County. By July 2, in other parts of the State."

"Does it cost money to belong to the League of Women Voters?" another asked. "Only $2 a year," she was told. "You can join through the Atlanta or DeKalb League, which automatically makes you a member of the Georgia League and entitles you to all publications of both organizations. League headquarters are at 220 Collier Building, Atlanta." And, "Do you tell League members how to vote?" The answer was, "No, we work only in the interest of good government. We do not try to influence any voter. We work to make citizens conscious of their responsibilities in creating good government, by registering, and voting; we provide information on the mechanics of voting; and we render a public service by publishing pertinent but unbiased information on candidates up for election. Our members vote according to their own convictions."

"What is the Georgia League working for now?" one woman wanted to know. "We are concentrating this year's interest on working for a fair and honest election throughout Georgia," it was explained. "Some counties have a secret ballot, including Fulton County. But many counties over the State do not. The Georgia Australian Ballot of 1942 is not secret, because ballot tickets and stubs are numbered and can easily be checked. If your county does not have the secret ballot system, form a citizens' committee, go before your grand jury, and request that it recommend that the 1941 law be adopted. That is the only secret ballot law."

"Does one have to register before each election someone asked. "No, it is necessary to re-register only if you fail to vote for two consecutive years. Don't let that happen."

A mother asked, "Can my daughter register now to vote in November? She is not quite 18 years old yet." It was explained that the daughter can register now, and vote next Fall, since she will be of voting age at that time.

One subdeb became vote conscious toward the end of the program and made a frantic last-minute call to know if there were not some way she could vote.

"You will have to wait a few years," she was told. —L. M.

Types of Rayon

There are two important types of rayon, and each has different characteristics. Viscose rayon is known for its strength; acetate rayon has good draping qualities. Both react differently to dyes. When both yarns are used in a fabric, unusual cross-dyed color effects are possible. Approximately 72 percent of the rayon produced in the United States is made by the Viscose process; 28 percent by the Acetate process.

SALLY FORTH Says:

College Belles A-Twitter As Spring Vacations Near

Whenever store windows don their Easter decorations and early Spring blossoms put in their appearance, it's time to contemplate the return of the college belles for the Spring holiday season.

Among the very first of the fair sex to arrive will be Mary Bailey and Eloise Eubanks, who reach the city on March 18 from Bryn Mawr, Pa., where they attend the Baldwin School. Mary will spend her vacation in Griffin with her parents, the Nathaniel Baileys, but so popular is she that she will doubtless be commuting back and forth in order to attend the many parties which will fete the college contingent here.

On the same day, Loiette Hume and Anne Harrison will arrive from Vanderbilt University in Nashville. The following day come the University of Georgia belles, including Alice Mitchell, Betty Wilson, Helen Terry, Catherine Pritchett, Corinne Carpenter, Janet Cheves, Ruth Johnson, Judy Sanders, Anne Groves, Mimi Inman and Kate Holmes. Also arriving March 19 will be the Mt. Vernon Junior College girls, including Margaret Wagar, Julia Taylor, Douglass Saffarrans, Frances King, Kitty Warren, Martha Evans, Julia Brewer, Nancy Jagels, Mary Ann Robison, Kate Lenhardt, Mary Helen Harrison, Helen Hunter, Grace Cox, Virginia Weinman and Lula Belle Scott. Margaret will bring with her attractive auburn-haired Mary Evins, of Los Angeles, who will divide her time between Margaret and Julia Taylor. Julia will have another guest, too, Nancy Sullivan, of Washington, D. C.

And what a glorious time these four are going to have! Mary's family owns one of the show places, Bontura, in Natchez, Miss., a handsome old mansion which is always open during the Natchez pilgrimage. After a few days of partying in Atlanta, Margaret, Julia, Nancy and another of their classmates, Kate Lenhardt, will board the train with Mary for Natchez, where they will be the Evinses' guests for the remaining days of their Spring vacation.

Margaret Davison, who is a student at St. Catherine's School in Richmond, begins her Spring holidays on March 20, and her sister, Betty, who attends Marjorie Webster Junior College, arrives on March 27. These two pretty sisters will visit their parents, Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Davison, on Valley Road. Also reaching the city on March 20 will be Trudy Martin, daughter of the W. O. Martins, who will have as her guest her roommate at the Spence School, Sally Steele, of New York City. March 20 will also mark the arrival of Martha Davis, Emily Pruitt, Peggy Sheffield and Constance Tunnell from Sweet Briar College. Betty Watson arrives on March 20 from Anderson College.

May Haverty, who attends Marymount, and her cousin, Ruth Elder, a student at the Knox School in Cooperstown, N. Y., will come home together on March 23 and will be among the popular subdebs here for Easter. The Wesleyan girls, Anne Ragan, Sarah Curry, Betsy Hopkins and Dottie Anne Smith, will arrive on March 24 for a holiday of only five days. Beulah Reeve, Bess Lundeen, Joan Lang, Barbara Hirsch, Anne Arkwright, Catherine Watson and Donna Limbert arrive from Marjorie Webster Junior College on March 25. Callie Huger flies home on March 26 from Wellesley, and the next day her classmates, Anne Upshaw and Ann Hirschberg, arrive by train. On March 26 Mary Pringle, Sally Hall, Frances Porcher, Mary Leavell Moses, Carolyn Robert, Polly Paxton, June Rowan, Betty Slaton and Nancy Hall arrive to visit their parents until April 5. Ann Boon will board the train on which her mother, Mrs. Harry Boon, is traveling to New York, and the pair will spend Ann's Spring holidays in New York, stopping at the Biltmore Hotel. This will be Ann's first trip to the metropolis, so she and her mother plan to rise early and go to bed late so as not to miss a trick.

The girls from Pine Manor in Wellesley, Mass., including Fay Sheffield, Jane Dickinson, Mary Budd and Nona Childs, board a southbound train on March 19 for a gay holiday at home. Allison Waggoner's holidays from Duke University begin on March 26, and that attractive trio, Ruth Hoppe, Kitty Poole and Olga Turner, begin their vacationing from Sophie Newcomb on March 19.

Anniversary Gift for Dr. and Mrs. Burns

Following his twenty-fifth anniversary sermon on Sunday, Dr. Robert Burns was invited to the basement of the Peachtree Christian Church, where the delightful custom of serving coffee after the morning services is enjoyed. Much to his surprise, he and Mrs. Burns were presented a handsome silver tray in commemoration of the anniversary by the members of his congregation.

Dr. and Mrs. Burns and a group of members from their church have just returned from a motor trip to Mexico, where they attended the dedication of a church at San Luis Potosi, which was built by Commodore and Mrs. V. P. Warren, of Atlanta. Dr. Burns is especially enthusiastic over the mission work being done there. The church, it seems, is built in a very poor section of the city where there is no pavement and no running water, so the mission hopes to build a social and recreational center with shower baths for the members of the congregation, in addition to a child care clinic and a well-mother clinic.

"The flowers, the mountains, and the little boys were the features that impressed me most about Mexico," Dr. Burns said. "Little girls are never allowed on the streets, but I never saw such bright-eyed little boys, and there are literally thousands of them.

"As for our experiences on the trip," he laughed, "they ranged all the way from collision with a skunk and an automobile on the highway to being held up by bandits."

Hadassah Group To Meet Monday

The Business and Professional Women's Division of Hadassah will entertain at a Purim Party and Palestine Supply Shower at 8 p. m. Monday at the Mayfair Club.

Mrs. Sol O. Klotz, former southeastern regional president of Hadassah and a member of the Speakers' Bureau for National Hadassah, will speak. Mrs. Klotz has spoken at many churches and has been active in creating goodwill between Jews and Christians. The birthday of Hadassah and Purim occur on the same date. Mrs. Klotz has chosen a timely subject, "Hadassah, the Modern Purim Spirit."

Mrs. Seymour Rappaport, in charge of Palestine Supplies, requests that all members bring to the meeting gifts of linen and clothing to be given through Hadassah to social welfare institutions in the Holy Land.

A social hour will follow with the serving of Hamantashen and coffee.

News on the Fraternity Front

By DOT SPRATLIN

Big things are happening on the Tech campus this weekend. The Interfraternity Council is sponsoring three dances at the Tech gym, with the first taking place this evening from 9 to 1. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a tea dance, with door prizes and entertainment by some of the boys during intermission. At the dance tomorrow evening ANAK, honorary fraternity, will tap new members and there will be a grand march. Both of the evening dances will be semiformal.

The Phi Delt frat house will be taken over this weekend by the out-of-town girls, and all the members will move in with some of their friends. The brothers will entertain at a breakfast following each evening dance, and an open house after the tea dance.

The Sigma Chis and the Kappa Sigs have both planned intermission parties at their houses during the IFC dances.

This evening at the Piedmont Driving Club, the SAE Alumni Association will celebrate the ninety-second anniversary of the founding of the fraternity. The dinner will start at 7 o'clock and the dance at 9. During the dinner an oil painting of Lauren Foreman, former Atlantan and Eminent Supreme Recorder, will be unveiled and presented to the SAE Chapter at Emory, Mr. Foreman's Alma Mater.

The Sigma Chis at Emory are planning a Blue Jeans party, and it sounds like a very comfortable idea. There will be dancing to the vic, sans shoes, and some of the brothers will try their hand at a minstrel.

The Emory Chi Phis will honor their Mothers' Club and Alumni at a tea Sunday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30. The affair will take place at the house on Fraternity Row.

Formal initiation will be held at the PiKA House at Tech Sunday afternoon.

Exams are drawing near, so everything will be quiet on the fraternity front after this weekend until Spring holidays are over.

POST-ELECTION PARLEY—Mrs. L. H. Axelrod, left, victor in the hottest PTA Council election held in Atlanta in many years, looks on as Mrs. J. W. Gaston, member of the overridden Nominating Committee, charges Gerald Y. Smith, school official, with "interference."

MRS. AXELROD BECOMES PRESIDENT

'Politics' Is Cry as Atlanta PTA Overrides Nominating Committee

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

With cries of "Politics!" on both sides and ladylike tempers burning brightly, more than 200 members of the Atlanta Council of Parent-Teacher Associations — believed to be a record attendance—swept aside recommendations of their Nominating Committee in a precedent-shaking action Thursday and elected an almost new slate of officers.

Mrs. L. H. Axelrod, First Vice President, who was bypassed by the Nominating Committee in making its selection, was nominated from the floor and rode triumphantly into office of President on 137 votes, as compared to 89 for Mrs. C. Lanier Randall, the committee's choice.

Mrs. Axelrod, President of Hoke Smith PTA, has been a member of the council for five years, her supporters said, and, according to precedent, would normally have been elected to succeed Mrs. Warren H. Bradley, retiring President.

Elected to serve with Mrs. Axelrod were Mrs. Leo Rollins, with 138 votes to Mrs. H. H. McAuley's 86, for First Vice President; Mrs. Thomas J. Couch, with 141 votes to Mrs. A. C. Mills' 85 for second Vice President; Mrs. J. D. Johnston, with 130 votes to Mrs. T. E. Clyatt's 92, for Recording Secretary; Mrs. William H. Smith, unopposed, as Recording Secretary, and Mrs. O. D. Dillinger, with 124 votes against Mrs. D. C. Cook's 87, for Treasurer.

Members-at-large named were: Mrs. R. L. Prather, with 110 votes against Mrs. A. A. Adamson's 108 votes, from the Northwest section; Mrs. J. Lee Tedder, 114 votes to Mrs. Jess Wilhoit's 102 votes, from the Northeast section; Mrs. M. R. Dodd, unopposed, Southwest section, and Mrs. J. Q. Franklin, unopposed, Southeast section.

Veteran members of the council said it was the first time in the organization's history two precedents had been so shattered. First, the Nominating Committee disregarded the normal line of succession in making its recommendations and then the delegates from 50 PTA groups disregarded the Nominating Committee's action.

Balloting, held in the Whitefoord School auditorium, was secret and by duly elected and certified delegates from the 50 city schools. Some of the schools voting have not sent representatives to council in years, one member said.

Petite, white-haired Mrs. Bradley, the retiring President, fought to keep order throughout the meeting and lost the struggle altogether at the end of the meeting when opposing forces cornered Gerald Y. Smith, Administrative Principal of Atlanta schools, in the hall. Charges of interference had been hurled at Smith by members of the Nominating Committee and several of them stopped him in the hall.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself!" cried Mrs. J. W. Gaston, a member of the Committee.

"I'm not ashamed of anything I have done," Smith insisted. Mrs. Axelrod and her supporters went to the school official's assistance just as members of the opposing faction left saying, "There's nothing left to do but get out."

Colman in Punch Play Thrills Loew's Houses

By PAUL JONES

The top of the inning in the cinema is up this week.

Two exceptional films—"A Double Life" and "Voice of the Turtle"—opened Thursday at Loew's and the Fox, respectively.

"A Double Life" is a murder story with a wallop. "Voice" is a comedy, a laugh-infested play which toured the States after a very enjoyable run on Broadway.

The Loew attraction is an unusual film. It combines snatches of Shakespeare's "Othello" with an almost melodramatic murder sub-theme and it maintains appeal for the masses. Ronald Coleman's two-sided part is not unusual. Mr. C. has been permorming with this same excellence and dramatic pose for as long as I can remember

Roland Colman

The most striking feature of "Double Life" is the way in which writers Ruth Gordon and Garson Kanin have refreshed an old idea with clever writing and intelligent fusing of situations in a many-sided plot. The story is about an actor who becomes obsessed with a part. He succumbs to the jealous rage which typifies his stage character Othello and he murders an innocent girl. The scene changes from the Shakespearean stage to the bawdy, ill-lighted flat of a cafe waitress and the saloons in which the Jekyll and Hyde character squanders his time. The dramatic impact of the piece is maintained through excellent direction and the acting of principals Colman, Edmond O'Brien, Signe Hasso and Shelley Winters.

'The Turtle' a Treat

I will always regard "Voice of the Turtle" as one of the most charming bits of theater I have ever seen. On the stage it was a gem. It was compact, racy, funny and original.

In transferring it to celluloid Warner Brothers has lost little of the varnish which established the John Van Druten story as a hit. It has been expanded to include 11 characters instead of the original three on the stage and the camera does not confine itself to the New York apartment of the naive actress who meets and wins the heart of a GI who is week-ending in her city. Glimpses of a restaurant and a downtown theater and night club have been included to enliven what would have been a monotonous four-walled scene.

The tender romance glows with an intimate air. The lines are, for the most part, just like Van Druten wrote them. The pretending of stars Eleanor Parker and Ronald Reagan is keyed to the engaging theme of the play. Eve Arden contributes a gem as the sophisticated friend who advises the young actress on her romantic problems.

Band at Tower

Henry Busse's band is back in town for a brief visit. The trumpeteer and his aggregation opened Thursday at the Tower Theater with a small revue. This show will close Sunday to make way for the opening of Joe Brown in "Harvey" Monday night.

A Diamond, a ring and a bride and groom. Those topics which are associated so closely with one another in every-day life become disassociated entirely during banter, boxing and mirth on the airlanes today.

The ring is Madison Square Garden, where Gus Lesnevich and Billy Fox will square off for a 15-round title bout at 10 tonight on WCON and ABC.

The diamond is the place where Bob Feller, ace Cleveland hurler, won his place as a member of baseball's Hall of Fame. He and Bill Stern, mentioned frequently as the Walking Man, will discuss juvenile delinquency during Stern's 10:30 'cast on WSB and NBC.

The bride and groom will say their solemn vows during WCON's pickup of the Bride and Groom show at 2:30 this afternoon. It originates in Hollywood and comes this way via ABC.

Broadway Hit Aired

The Broadway hit show, "Look Ma, I'm Dancing," will be presented in condensed version on the airlanes at 10 tonight, when Dinah Shore, Harry James and Georgia's Johnny Mercer get together for another of their bright "Call for Music" sessions on WGST and CBS.

Miss Shore will sing "Shauny O'Shay"; James and his trumpet will feature "Tiny Room" and Mercer will offer the controversial "I'm Tired of Texas."

Beg Your Pardon

When Francis Craig played at the Tower Theater recently he was riding on the crest of musical success. His his, "Near You," was selling like hot cakes. But, he didn't express much hope for a new ditty he had penned, "Beg Your Pardon."

But, the "Pardon" number has become the surprise number of the season. It's moving up the ladder on the Hit Parade. Bob Hannon, star of the Waltz Time show, has chosen it as his feature number. He will sing that tune, "You Were Meant for Me" and "Golden Earrings" during the 'cast at 9:30 tonight on WSB and NBC. Evelyn McGregor will pose the muscial query, "What'll I Do?" and then offer "Let's Be Sweethearts Again" as her contributions.

Bank Breakers Set

Two Princeton students will have a toehold on the $5,500 in the coffers of the Break the Bank when they return to continue their assault on the program's jackpot at 9 tonight on WCON and ABC. The two contestants reached the $20 mark in the category, "Working Our Way Through College" when air time ran out last Friday.

Paula Lawrence, musical comedy and night club comedienne, scribbles a guest column for Betty Crocker's Magazine of the Air at 10:25 this morning on WCON. . . . Actress Lili Palmer drops into the Paul Whiteman record club at 3:30 on WCON. . . . Art Linkletter, presiding officer of the People Are Funny show, offers a lucky contestant a chance to win the "New Future" contest by correctly answering the riddle at 9 tonight on WSB. . . . Perry Como and the Satisfiers will blow musical smoke rings at 7 on WSB. . . . The little things in family life add up to fun during CBS' "Ozzie and Harriet" at 9:30 tonight on WGST, when Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard (Mr. and Mrs. in private life) bring another of their amusing domestic comedy-dramas to the airlanes.

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

A Pleasant Day At Holly Springs

FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1948

Suggestion of the day: These wet days can be wonderfully used by visiting the experiment stations at Watkinsville, Experiment, Blairsville and Tifton. They are there for YOU.

200 ATTEND SALE

Well, we spent yesterday at Holly Springs Farm and had many pleasant and varied experiences. People come first with us, and there were 200 present at the Polled Hereford sale, including many of the men and women who have made livestock raising in Georgia the interesting and profitable occupation it has come to be. Among these were Dr. Milton P. Jarnagin, whose expansive chest was all but bursting with pride over the condition and appearance of the cattle.

Jarnagin has been head of tthe animal husbandry division of the State College of Agriculture since 1907 and has been in the vanguard of every important advance in animal husbandry in Georgia since that year.

Waldo Rice was there, now manager of the Hereford Association of Georgia, but who, for more than 20 years, taught animal husbandry at the College.

Vice Chancellor Harry Brown, and Director Walter Brown and Charlie Bell, of Extension, and W. W. Denny and H. M. Fisher, of Experiment, were on the job.

A number of farm boys, who made good in the cities and returned to the farm and are setting the example for others to follow, rallied around in support of the occasion. Among others there were Jake Hughes, Roy Smith, Fred B. Wilson, T. O. Asbury, Ross Sharpe, Clyde Sheppard, and the master of the sale, himself, L. J. Moore.

Hereford breeders were there too: E. E. Moore and Hot Moore, of Mississippi; H. J. Harvey, of South Carolina (who paid $8,250 for Colonel Domino, the best bull in the sale), and many others whose names escape me. There were two livestock men from Salt Lake City, Utah, who are now in Georgia looking into the possibilities of large-scale commercial cattle production.

As to figures, the average for the entire sale of 50 animals was $784 each. The top heifer brought $2,000, the top bull $8,250 as noted above, and the average for the six bulls was $1,994 per bull. All of this would indicate that good cattle can be produced on the Yellow River.

And this brings us to the subject of pastures and hay crops, without which it is impossible to produce economical beef cattle.

These Holly Springs Polled Herefords make use of a lot of quality roughage, the various pastures being planted to kudzu, serecea, Kobe lespedeza, Dallis grass, Bermuda grass, crimson clover, manganese clover, Kentucky 31 fescue grass, ladino clover, white Dutch clover and the small grains. Most of the hay is made from serecea lespedeza.

It is interesting to note that only Kentucky 31 fescue grass was available for grazing this past January, because of the strenuosity of the Fall drouth. The grain and concentrate used to balance the ration is selected by the herd manager, Konrad Purdy, who has been in charge of the herd since its beginning about five years ago.

Mr. Purdy comes from a family of cattle breeders and feeders, his father and two brothers managing Polled Hereford herds elsewhere in the country. His grandfather was a feeder of show cattle, also.

It was a grand occasion, all around. The new show barn is something to rave about, and the thought comes to us that it will be the center of many interesting meetings and events. Our own Kudzu Club would look well assembling there as would other organizations of similar nature. Look for big things in the future on Yellow River.

Our congratulations to Leslie J. and Virginia Moore, and to their herdsman, Konrad Purdy, for their outstanding accomplishments.

"The earth is the Lord's," so states the Psalmist. Either this is true or it is not true. If true, we are giving the Lord's land a mighty beating. And yet, there are more Christians in Georgia than in any other place on earth. How do you account for this paradoxical situation?

Join us at 6 a. m. and 12:45 p. m. We'll give you a mighty welcome.

Until then,

Channing Cope

'Established Policy' Kills Sutton Hearing

Declaring the Board of Regents had never held a hearing over the transfer of an administrative official, faculty member, or other employee in the University System, Regent Chairman Pope Brock asserted Thursday the Board would not grant a hearing in the case of Dr. Glenn Sutton, transferred from the Savannah branch to the University of Georgia at Athens.

He said a poll of Board members was overwhelmingly against departing from long-established policy.

National Flower

The orchid is the national flower of five middle American republics—Colombia, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Panama and Cuba. Greatly prized because of its rarity in the United States, varieties of orchids grow in such profusion in most of the middle American countries that the poorest senorita can wear an orchid corsage every night if she so desires.

VEGETABLES FOR ALIMONY PLEA LOSES; PACKER ORDERED TO PAY EX-WIFE CASH

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 4—(AP)—Vegetable Packer Sam Lobue told the divorce court it would be impossible to pay his wife $140 a month alimony.

However, he could let her take it out in vegetables.

Her attorney argued that would put Lobue in the position of dictating her diet—broccoli today, beans tomorrow, and the like.

"My client needs money, not rutabagas," said the attorney.

Judge Leonard R. Avila agreed. He ordered Lobue to pay $110 a month in cash pending the divorce action.

2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	7 diamonds	Pass

It is not every hand in contract bridge that lends itself to complete scientific description. On a great many deals situations develop for which the art of man has not been able to devise the perfect method. In those cases one must place his faith in probabilities and when a slam is likely he should pull himself up by his boot straps, and utter the mystic words. Others, including today's hand from a recent tournament, are suited for delicate treatment.

The opening bid of one heart and the response of one spade are normal enough. It will be observed that while North had no doubt there was game in the hand when partner opened, he bided his time with a one over response in order to elicit as much information as possible. He avoided the common error of responding with two no trump on this hand, which is not good strategy despite the fact that the hand contains the proper count.

South having a full one and one-half honor tricks in excess of his bid quite properly jumped to two no trump. At this point North knew there was a slam in the hand (opener is known to have a count of 19 or 20 so that the combined point count is sufficient for a slam), but took the precaution to investigate for the best possible final contract by bidding three diamonds. South then showed his diamond support after which North showed the ace of club. Now South contracted for a small slam because for all he knew partner's diamonds might have bee headed by the king-jack and he was not inclined to risk all on the chance of picking up the queen of trumps. North promptly went the limit with the complete confidence. His partner was marked with a minimum honor trick holding of four and one-half, plus other factors for his subsequent violence. Those honor tricks must include, two tricks in hearts, one in diamonds, one in clubs and one-half in spades. Eleven high card tricks could be counted plus two ruffs making the total 13.

I came in for considerable abuse from one North player who jumped to six no trump after his partner's rebid of two no trump and only 11 tricks were scored since no squeeze could be developed. "It's your fault," he said, "you told me if I had a good opening bid and my partner opened the bidding and jumped, there was a slam, and since my hand was suitable for no trump, I bid six."

In self defense I would like to say that my rule contains the proviso that the best final contract is reached. In this case I think it will not be disputed that the diamond suit offers the superior contract.

German Claims Hitler, Eva Escaped

NUERNBERG, Germany, March 4—(AP)—U. S. Army Intelligence officers have turned up another German who claims to have seen Hitler and Eva Braun escape from Germany as the war ended.

This one is a former German Air Force pilot named Arthur Frederick Angelotte-Mackensen. The Intelligence officers said Thursday he told them he saw Hitler and Eva escape by plane from Berlin to Denmark and as far as Southern France in late April, 1945.

Mackensen was arrested at Wolfratshausen, near Munich, on a tip from a German girl. U. S. officers in Frankfurt said they were awaiting an official report, but added that similar stories had been told before and had not been proved.

Ex-Col. Durant To Seek Liberty In Jewel Case

Former Army Col. Jack Durant, now serving 14 years in the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta for alleged theft of the Hesse jewels in Germany, is preparing to seek his release on a habeas corpus writ.

Bruce Woodruff, Atlanta attorney, and Hugh O'Bear and Edmund D. Campbell, both Washington, D. C., attorneys, have been retained to prepare the case for the former officer who entered the penitentiary here last Dec. 9 to begin serving a 14-year term.

Durant and his wife, former WAC Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant, were charged with theft of the Hesse jewels worth $1,500,000 from an underground cache at Kronberg Castle near Frankfurt, Germany, in November of 1945.

Mrs. Durant was sentenced to five years at hard labor for her part in the theft, but won freedom in habeas corpus proceedings. She contended the Army was without jurisdiction to try her by court-martial. It is expected that Durant's attorneys may follow the same line of argument, pleading that he had applied for terminal leave at the time of his arrest.

WHITE COLLAR—Earnings of Atlanta stenographers are currently about $1 an hour for a 40-hour week, according to a study made by the Atlanta office of the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Harris P. Dawson, Jr., Regional Director, said 186 Atlanta firms participated in the study. Results disclosed weekly earnings for general stenographers (women) average $39.42, while those of more "technical" stenos average $40.95. Among women clerical workers, the highest weekly earnings were made by hand bookkeepers, who averaged $44.41 Lowest weekly earnings were for office girls and Class B file clerks, who average about $30. Of 23 clerical occupations studied in which women were employed, only four reported hourly earnings below 85 cents and five above $1. Highest hourly rate for women was $1.09. Both weekly and hourly earnings for men were generally at a higher level than for women in the same occupation, Dawson said.

Dewey Hits Democrats For 'Profligate Waste'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Truman Administration caught a heavy blast Thursday from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey who pictured the Administration as a foolish spendthrift threatening to bring "ruinous inflation."

The New York Governor wlung his charges in a message of thanks to Wisconsin friends who are backing him for the Republican Presidential nomination.

"Our national Government is torn by bitterness and quarreling," the Governor said. "Its profligate waste of the money it has wrung from our people by taxes threatens to bring us to ruinous inflation."

DRUMS FOR 'MAC'

Another politician who wants a new President, Rep. A. L. Miller, Republican, Nebraska, kept the drums rolling for Gen. MacArthur in a speech to the House.

Although MacArthur has not said what his intentions are, Banker Warren Wright, of Chicago, headed for Washington to open national headquarters for a MacArthur campaign committee.

Philadelphia meanwhile got set for a pre-convention burst of politics. The Philadelphia Bulletin Forum announced a two-day session March 9-10 with a speaker list including Sen. Robert A. Taft, Republican, Ohio, and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota.

Out West, the CIO continued to have trouble with Harry Bridges, longshoremen's leader. Bridges openly defied the CIO to fire him as a Regional Director because of his support for Wallace and his opposition to the European Recovery Plan.

NEW YORK, N. Y., March 5th—I've seen COCOMALT tins many a time in stores . . . but not until recently did I learn how important this malted food drink can be in children's diets. Do let me pass my discoveries along to you . . . COCOMALT is a malted food drink that's so rich in calcium that it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value. In addition, it supplies the day's full minimum requirement for iron, phosphorus, Vitamins B_1 and D! That makes it a blessing, indeed . . . because children, who are "finicky" about drinking a quart of milk EVERY day, love the rich chocolate-y flavor of COCOMALT!

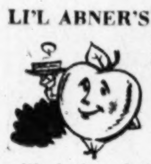
Add ¼ c. lemon juice, ⅓ c. sugar, ¼ tsp. salt and 1 tsp. vanilla extract. Stir in dissolved gelatine. Chill. Beat until stiff 2 egg whites, and whip ⅓ c. heavy cream. Fold egg whites and whipped cream into peach mixture . . . arrange pieces of stale cake or macaroons in sherbet glasses. Fill with peach mixture and top with remaining peach slices. Chill until firm. (Serves 8.)



LI'L ABNER'S CREAM OF WHEAT APPLE PUDDING is as tasty a dish as ever came my way . . . so begging my favorite comic character's pardon, I'll pass it on:

Combine 1⅓ c. cooked "Cream of Wheat," 1⅓ c. scalded milk, 3 eggs (beaten) and ¼ c. sugar. Add ½ tsp. vanilla. Place 1 c. sliced apples in a well-greased baking dish (1½ qt.). Pour "Cream of Wheat" mixture over apples. Combine ⅛ tsp. nutmeg and 2 tbsp. sugar and sprinkle over top. Dot with 1 tbsp. butter and bake in mod. slow oven (350°F.) 40-50 min.

Served hot or cold, this Li'l Abner dish is a hit . . . and remember, served any way, Enriched 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" provides a family with lots of iron and "get-up-and-go" food-energy, plus extra calcium, phosphorus, and Vitamin B_1! Deliciously creamy, it cooks to full digestibility in just 5 minutes of boiling, and costs less than 1c for each piping hot, flavorful bowlful!

SMART HOMEMAKERS are on to the secret of pretty hands . . . in spite of the fact that they cook, tackle the dishes, keep the house spotless and do the nursery chores! And it's the discovery of the new scientific suds, SWERL, that does the trick for them! That's because SWERL takes the word "grease" out of their vocabulary . . . banishing it completely! And that, I can tell you, is 'most everywhere about the house . . . for SWERL can cut grease off even the greasiest dishes and pots and pans and leave even the dishwater greaseless! It shines up glasses so perfectly that they don't even have to be wiped to be gleamingly clear! It cleans fingermarks from doorjams, porcelain and upholstery. That's why I urge you to try SWERL . . . the new scientific soapless discovery that can "run circles" around soap in speed of cleaning, time saving and economy!

They'll add tremendously to any Chinese dish you fix . . . and add a special flavor when combined with other foods.

AN ACE? NO! A KING

Three-Card Monte an Art As Attorney Finds Out

CHICAGO, March 4—(UP)—Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph Tobin began taking lessons from a magician Thursday, determined to master the age-old game of three-card monte in an attempt to convict two alleged card sharps.

Tobin, 40, sat at his desk in the Federal Building fumbling with a deck of cards. He shuffled them cautiously, selected three, and pushed them around on the desk.

"I've been at this for hours," he said, "but I'm not very good yet. You know, this racket really is an art."

Tobin hopes to win a conviction against Isaac Barry, 26, and Willie Shuford, 44, charged with conducting a fraud in interstate commerce. They were accused of having fleeced passengers with three-card monte aboard railroad trains between Cincinnati, South Bend and Chicago.

Three-card monte is similar to the old shell game. The operator, usually working with an accomplice, shoves three cards around on a table and the "suckers" bet on which is the ace. Bettors never seem to be able to find the right card.

Tobin charged Barry and Shuford obtained $400 from passengers on one trip from Cincinnati to Chicago. On another trip, passengers who lost $60 complained to the conductor and Barry and Shuford had to jump off the train at South Bend, Tobin said. They were arrested by G-Men when they arrived in Chicago on a recent trip.

U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker told Tobin he would have to prove that three-card monte is a fraud. He postponed the proceedings and scheduled a hearing for March 26.

Tobin enlisted the aid of Magician Glenn Viall, who also is chief clerk of the New York Central, the railroad on which Barry and Shuford allegedly conducted their swindle.

Tobin explained that he preferred to learn the game himself, rather than hire a professional to prove it a fraud.

"Suckers have been taken in by this game for 400 years," he said. "I want to learn how it's done and go into court and prove to the judge with my own arguments and demonstration that it is a fraud."

He selected a king, a queen and an ace, turned them face down and flicked them around rapidly on his desk.

"Now," he said, "everyone would think the ace is the card on the left, but it isn't. It's the one on the right."

He picked up the card on the right. It was the king.

"Oh, well," Tobin said, "I've got until March 26."

JAP SCHOOL BOOKS: COMEDY OF ERRORS

TOKYO, March 4—(AP)—Japan's postwar government has compiled schoolbooks full of mistakes, the newspaper Asahi said Thursday.

One book, Asahi noted, named Pope Gregory XIII as Pope Gory XIII. Another discussed Prof. Kiyoshi Shiga, who isolated the hysentery germ, and said he died 13 years ago. Prof. Shiga, however, says "I am still alive."

Education ministry officials say there is a shortage of textbook writers and proofreaders.

A life-long resident of Atlanta, Mr. Freeman had been associated with the Atlantic Steel Company for 23 years. He was a member of Warren Candler Methodist Church.

$50,000 Blaze Third In Kosciusko, Miss.

KOSCIUSKO, Miss., March 4—(AP)—Fire early Thursday destroyed the Brantley Wholesale Company warehouse and office building here. B. B. Brantley, owner, estimated damage at $50,000.

Mayor Alton Massey said cause of the fire was not known.

It was the third largest fire to strike in Kosciusko in the past six weeks.

REVENUE BUREAU 'COLLARED' HIM—NOT 'DOLLARED' HIM ON RETURN

HARTFORD, Conn., March 4—(AP)—Federal tax officials here Thursday told about a man who must have thought the Internal Revenue Bureau had him by the neck.

He inclosed a collar in a letter asking for a copy of his 1946 tax return. "This doesn't make sense," the man wrote, "but if that is the rule, then that is the rule."

Investigation proved that the taxpayer was absolutely right. He had written previously asking for a copy of his return, and had been told it would cost him "one collar."

Bureau officials said such typographical errors—"collar" for "dollar"—were rare, but they do happen.

It happens at midnight!

Harrison 'Slur' Scored by Ellis

J. M. Ellis, Fayette County Republican and member of the Fayette-Coweta REA Association, Thursday denounced a statement by Rep. Walter Harrison, of Millen, State REA President, that "60 percent of the lawyers in the Legislature and the members of the Georgia Public Service Commission are controlled by the Georgia Power Company."

Returning from Washington where he and Harrison testified before a House Committee on the Clark's Hill project, Ellis said Harrison's testimony aided, instead of harmed, the Georgia Power Company's petition to operate the Clark's Hill project. Ellis said he, himself, spoke in favor of Government rather than private utility operation of the project, but he objected to Harrison maligning the State of Georgia. He said the Georgia Power Company did not control and had no interest in controlling the Legislature or Public Service Commission.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our darling husband and father, Mr. Joseph Fowler, who separated this life one year ago, March 5, 1947.

The pearly gates swung open,
A gentle voice said "Come;"
And with farewell unspoken,
He gently entered home.
In our hearts is a living picture
Of one we laid to rest.
We loved you, darling,
But God loved you best.
Our hearts are oh, so lonely,
But God who answers prayer
Will gather us home again with you
Some day, some time, somewhere.

MRS. FLORINE FOWLER, Wife;
ROBERT LEE FOWLER, Son.

THE LABOR FRONT

U. S. Mulls Walkout Set By Packers

CHICAGO, March 4—(INS)—Opposing sides in the threatened strike by 100,000 CIO-Packinghouse Workers marked time Thursday while Federal concilators studied means of averting the walkout.

The strike, which will tie up 89 major meat packing plants across the nation, has been called for 12:01 a. m. Tuesday, March 16.

U. S. Conciliator Thomas G. Cleland said every effort would be made to avert the tie-up. He plans meetings next week with leaders of the Union and Big Four packers—Swift & Company, Armour, Wilson & Company, and Cudahy.

TAFT-HARTLEY ACT FAILS?

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Government asserted that the Taft Hartley Labor Act may fail in its avowed attempt to drive Communists from "leadership in the labor movement."

The National Labor Relations Board, ruling in an unfair labor practices case involving a CIO union, admitted that a loophole in the law thus far has defeated the intent of Congress to force Reds in high labor posts to identify themselves as such.

The law requires all union officers to file affidavits disavowing Communism and defines officers as those listed in union constitutions. Several unions have constitutionally abolished certain offices since passage of the act, apparently to circumvent the statute.

NEWSPAPERS WARNED

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—An executive of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association told a Federal judge Thursday that if more newspapers are hit by printers' strikes they will not be able to continue publication the way the papers in Chicago and elsewhere have done.

He said also that if the International Typographical Union continues its present policies, the result for the newspaper industry would be "disastrous," but Judge Luther M. Swygert knocked this remark out of the court record.

George N. Dale was testifying on behalf of the Government's effort to get a Taft-Hartley injunction forcing the ITU to change its policies, pending a decision by the National Labor Relations Board on whether those policies violate the law.

Dale is chairman of the ANPA's Special Standing Committee on Labor Relations

Packers Call Strike Threat 'Unnecessary'

Two Atlanta meat packing men Thursday called the threatened strike of the CIO Packinghouse Workers "unnecessary" and their wage demands "exhorbitant and unrealistic."

In exactly the same words, A. H. Joiner, District Manager for Swift and Company, and E. S. Papy, Manager of the White Provision Company, pointed out that two other unions, AFL and Independent, had accepted increases of nine cents an hour, while the CIO group demands 19 cents.

"This nine cents raise," they said, "more than equals the increase in the cost of living since the wage increase of last June. Swift and Company has expressed its willingness to make the same settlement with the CIO union. Unreasonable demands and a strike called by that union will result in loss of wages to employees and a disruption of our normal services to livestock producers and consumers."

More than 1,500 workers in 13 meat packing plants here are threatening to join a nation-wide walkout of 100,000 CIO Packinghouse Workers set for March 16.

Vet Seeks $2,200 Sent From Pacific

MACON, March 4—(AP)—James F. Harville, Marine veteran, filed suit in Bibb Superior Court in an attempt to recover $2,200 which he says he sent from the South Pacific to be held in trust until his return.

Ed (Buck) Calhoun and Mrs. Emma Calhoun, owners of Oscar's Tavern on Jeffersonville Road, were named as defendants.

Harville alleges that he sent the money to the Calhouns to be kept for him until he returned to Macon, but that the Calhouns used it to buy the tavern, at a total cost of $10,000.

He is asking a judgment of $2,200 equity in the tavern, plus whatever amount is due him in rents from the tavern.

War-Shattered Leg Can't Stop Rookie

The most discussed rookie in the big league training camps is a 24-year-old left-handed pitcher from Ware Shoals, S. C., with a war-shattered left leg.

His name is Leland V. Brissie, nicknamed "Lou," and he's playing today only because of his ability to talk doctors out of amputating his shell-shattered leg.

Lou was with Savannah in the Sally League last season, winning 23 games while losing only five. His strikeouts averaged more than one per inning and his earned-run average was a brilliant 1.91 per game.

Baseball people, including his manager, Connie Mack, are calling him another Lefty Grove, maybe not right away but within the next year or two, provided his leg, which still must be supported by a plastic cast, doesn't fail on him.

He's six feet four and a half inches tall and weighs 215 pounds, a big, strapping youngster who can rear back and fog that ball.

But the interesting angle about Lou Brissie is the way he's living up to a set af ideals established for him by his father, who died at the age of 44 without having too much chance to observe his son's career.

Follows Dad's Advice But before he died, the elder Brissie advised his boy to pattern his career after three great baseball figures, Lou Gehrig, Lefty Grove and Connie Mack.

He wanted Lou to mold his character after the immortal Gehrig and so far he has filled the bill. He has no bad habits, is quiet and unassuming and is a favorite with fans and teammates alike.

Dad wanted him to be a pitcher like Grove, a left-hander with a lot of speed and the stuff under the belt it takes to keep bearing down when the going gets tough. Lou's record in baseball would indicate he is living up to his dad's wishes in this department, too.

And, finally, Dad Brissie wanted Lou to play for Connie Mack. So he signed with the Athletic organization and has a good chance to fulfill that wish this season.

Ageless Appling One of the more encouraging bit sof news to come from major league camps is the report that Luke Appling isn't feeling well and is complaining of various physical ailments.

This, of course, indicates that Ageless Appling is in for one of his best seasons in baseball.

Ol' Aches and Pains has been shortstopping for the Chicago White Sox for 17 years and they can't get him out of the lineup. However, to hear him tell it, he hasn't felt well in at least 15 years and he "just don't know what's wrong with me."

He complains before and after games, between innings and on off-days. But on the field he romps about covering shortstop like a 20-year-old kid and remains one of the American League's most feared hitters at the plate.

More than once Luke's ability to foul pitches has had enemy hurlers muttering to themselves.

Luke perhaps is the most popular active player in the game. They gave him a "day" at Comiskey Park last season and the park was jammed with admirers.

They said a lot of nice things about him and gave him a lot of nice presents.

"Shucks," was all the embarrased Georgia boy could say.

Bloch Worries Engel It was good to get a note from Maurice Bloch, the President of the Selma baseball club and one of Auburn's most loyal supporters.

Maurice was seriously ill in the hospital for several weeks but is now convalescing at his home and hopes to be up and at 'em before the opening of the Southeastern League season.

Bloch said the one good thing about his illness was that it afforded him a chance to at least partially get even with Joe Engel, who takes great delight in arranging various trips with Maurice—at the latter's expense, of course.

"I really had Ol' Joe worried for a while," Bloch wrote, "and he really cussed me out soon as I was able to talk to him on the telephone."

Tech Wallops Bama, 46-34

Nolan Gets 25; Wave, Vols Win

By JACK JACKSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. March 4—Jim Nolan scored 25 points to lead Georgia Tech to an upset 46-to-34 win over fourth seeded Alabama, as the Jackets joined second seeded Tulane, victors over a stubborn Auburn team, in the quarter finals of the Southeastern Conference basketball tournament at the Jefferson County armory here Thursday afternoon.

The Green Wave, touted as the club with the best chance to defeat Kentucky, overcame Auburn, 47 to 40, only after the surprising Tigers had lead throughout 18 minutes of the first half, and five of the second. The Wave meets Vanderbilt in Friday's second round.

Tennessee joined the first round victors Thursday night by defeating Mississippi State, 73-52.

Kentucky's defending champions opened up with a devastating 87 to 31 victory over a completely outclassed Florida quintet.

Nolan, in addition to his fine offensive game, turned in a bang-up job under the baskets to lead the Jackets. Tech meets its traditional rival, Georgia in the second round. The Jackets won two of three regular season games from the Bulldogs.

The Jackets, who dropped a 44-to-31 regular season decision to the Tide, were never headed, although their margin was cut to a single point five times, Nolan, who set a new SEC record in scoring 32 points against Kentucky two weeks ago, garnered 10 field goals and five free tosses to account for his 25 points. Mickey Sermersheim, diminutive guard, added another dozen to the Tech total.

Nolan hit on 10 of 26 attempts from the field, while as a team Tech hit 17 of 69 for a 24.6 percentage. 'Bama hit an even 20 percent with 11 of 55. The Tide's slow-motion offense held scoring down, and made it a fairly dull game for the half-filled stands.

Auburn, with Ray Williams and Bill Moberly leading the way, overcame a 3-1 Tulane lead to pull the count to 14-3, before the heavily-favored Greenies scored again. Warren Perkins and Virgil Risner closed the gap to 14-20 at halftime, with Auburn still in the lead.

TIDE DESCENDS ON NOLAN—Somewhere in the middle of this pileup of basketball players is Big Jim Nolan, Tech center, who paced the Jackets to a 46-to-34 victory over Alabama in the first round of the Southeastern Conference tournament at Louisville. Nolan survived this and various other Tide defensive measures to score 25 points. Identified in the picture are Alabama's Carl Shaeffer (55), J. F. Sharp (22), Eugene Palmer (44) and Carl Crumpler (77). Tech's Joe Keener (8) is at left.

Sports Arena Takes State Crown Again

By BERT PRATHER

Coach Johnny Moon's Sports Arena Rebels successfully defended their State Open basketball crown Thursday night at the Sports Arena court with an easy 76-to-55 victory over the Atlanta Preps.

The Preps, a collection of former local high school players, scrapped all the way, but the rangy Rebel sharpshooters packed far too much advantage in height and experience for them. Sports Arena pulled out into a 33-22 halftime advantage and was never in any serious danger thereafter.

The losers did salvage some glory from the game, however, when the tournament officials named their center, Turkey Kirk, the outstanding player of the tournament. Turkey, who entered Georgia last year but his since transferred to Georgia Junior College here, was the main cog in his team's attack, scoring 22 points which added to his previous efforts gave him a total of 102 and high point honors for the tourney. He was awarded an individual trophy by the tournament committee for being selected the outstanding player and also a silver basketball for being named to the All-State team.

Other players elected on the All-State combine were Jimmy Johnson, Chuck Kemmitzer and Lyn Diamond, of Sports Areana; Rudy Stewart, Atlanta Rockets; Bobby Land, Clarksdale; Brutus Baker, Atlanta Rockets; Elmer Coalson, Aragon, Ga.; A. Z. Johnson, Oglethorpe University, and Red Ivey, of the Inman Park Rebels. All these players received

Harrell Named Head Of Indiana Athletics

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 4—(AP)—Indiana University trustees Thursday night named Paul (Pooch) Harrell, head football coach, to succeed Alvin N. (Bo) McMillin as athletic director.

The appointment was announced by John F. Hastings, of Washington, Ind., a member of the Board of Trustees.

Hastings said Harrell was recommended to the Board by the faculty committee on athletics.

Harrell, an IU alumnus, has been in the athletics department 19 years. He has been serving as assistant football coach in addition to heading the baseball coaching staff.

McMillin resigned recently as head football coach and athletic director to become head coach and general manager of the Detroit Lions in the National Football League. His successor as football coach has not been named.

NEWS FROM THE TRAINING CAMPS

Dyer Injured by Batted Ball

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4—(AP)—Mgr. Eddie Dyer, of St.Louis, was resting comfortably Thursday after suffering a slight concussion when struck in the head by a batted ball in the Cardinals' morning workout at their Spring training camp.

The accident occurred minutes after holdout Stan Musial, the Redbirds' slugging first baseman, came to terms with Pres. Robert E. Hannegan.

After he was revived and carried to the clubhouse, Dyer was rushed to the hospital where X-ray pictures showed no fracture of the skull. His condition was described as "good."

It took Hannegan and Musial only 15 minutes to come to terms. No figures were announced but it was learned that the contract called for $31,000, the same sum Musial received last year.

However, Stan was promised he would be given a "substantial raise" if he had a "good year" in 1948.

Musial who slumped from his league-leading batting figure of .365 in 1946 to .312 last year, had been holding out for $36,000.

The accident occurred as Dyer was standing in short left field directing the workout. Vernon Rapp, a minor-league catcher, working out with the Cards, was batting fungoes to the outfield and accidentally hit a line drive directly at Dyer.

Enos Slaughter, one of the outfielders shagging flies, shouted to Dyer to duck. Dyer swung to one side and the ball struck him on the side of the head, on the edge of the right temple.

Musial's signing left only Pitchers Harry Brecheen and Ray Yochim out of the fold.

Indications are however that Brecheen will come to terms shortly. The hard-working lefthander left his Ada, Okla., home for the Card base Wednesday and is expected to arrive Friday to confer with Hannegan.

Rudy York 'Looks Good'

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 4—(AP)—First Baseman Rudy York demonstrated Thursday for the Philadelphia Athletics Bossman, Connie Mack, that he's still trim and fast afoot despite his 207 pounds.

Mack watched York skip around scooping up grounders and leaping for high ones during practice and then admitted "that fellow looks pretty good."

Gil Coan May Stick

ORLANDO, Fla., March 4—(AP) It looks as if Gil Coan, rookie outfielder who once sported a $100,000 price tag, will make the grade with the Washington Senators this time.

Manager Joe Kuhel, of the Senators, said Thursday that Gil is improving on hitting curve balls. That weakness has kept Coan out of the majors.

He hit .340 with Chattanooga last year.

Two Phils Injured

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 4—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies came up with two training camp casualties today when Roy Cullenbine and Curt Simmons were injured.

Cullenbine, recently acquired from the Detroit Tigers, suffered a badly twisted neck when his car collided with another automobile while driving to the ball park. Simmons, promising rookie southpaw hurler, slipped on the wet turf and pulled a tendon in his left ankle.

Buc Pitchers Named

HOLLYWOOD, March 4—(AP)—Hal Gregg, Cal McLish and Forrest Main have been named for mound duty in the Pittsburgh Pirates' first exhibition game with the St. Louis Browns Sunday at San Bernardino. Each will toss three innings, in the order named.

Partee Joins Browns

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 4—(AP)—Catcher Roy Partee, obtained from the Boston Red Sox, came to terms with the St. Louis Browns Thursday. Six Brownies still are unsigned.

"We expect to have everyone signed and in camp by Sunday when the Browns open their exhibition schedule against Pittsburgh," said Jack Fournier, the Club's Chief Scout.

Valdosta Wins State Cage Title, 37 to 24

By JESSE OUTLAR,
Constitution Sports Writer.

MACON, March 4—Valdosta became the first Georgia high school ever to win State championships in football and basketball in the same school year Thursday night when the Eighth District cagers romped to a 37-to-24 victory over Glennville, of the First District, in the finals of the Class "B" cage tournament at Mercer's Porter Gymnasium here.

The Wildcats, paced by Sonny Stephenson and Billy Grant, the same two boys who led their football team, jumped into an early lead against the surprising Glennville quintet and never was behind.

Stephenson shot 16 points for scoring honors, while Grant piled in 10. Jesse Finch, Glennville forward, was outstanding for the losers with 11 markers.

Valdosta got away to a 13-to-2 lead in the first quarter but Glennville fought back to pull up to 13-10. That was as close as the First District champions ever got, the Wildcats getting two more baskets for a 17-to-10 advantage at halftime.

In winning its championship, Valdosta eked by Gainesville and then downed Newnan in the semi-finals. Glennville whipped Colquitt and upset a highly favored Athens five in the semi-finals.

Finals in the "C" division, between Portal, of the First District, and Montezuma, of the Third, will be played Friday night at 8 o'clock.

IF ONLY THEY COULD PLAY

Tech's Best Nine Made Up of Frosh

By GEORGE TISINGER

Georgia Tech has some freshman baseball players who are making Coach Joe Pittard wish freshmen were available for varsity play again this year.

The Jackets, despite the weather, have been getting in some sweat-clothes practice for the past two weeks and Pittard has had a chance to get a pretty good idea of his infielders and batterymen. His remark Thursday was: "The brightest thing I've seen so far is the work of some of our freshmen."

Listed among them are first year pitchers like Melvin Welch, Herbert Bradshaw, and Ronnie Sineway. Welch and Sineway are lefthanders. Welch is from Spartanburg, S. C., hotbed of baseball activity of the high school and American Legion variety. He also played service ball.

Bradshaw, righthander, is from Waycross (Ga.) High where he made All-State and also played on the Legion club which did okay by itself there.

Sineway is from Cleveland, Ohio, and is ready now for varsity ball, Pittard believes.

A teammate of Bradshaw at Waycross is Freshman R. J. Stripling, first baseman, who played well on that sack for the Waycross Legion outfit, too.

Behind the plate there is Don Shaffer, with a powerful right arm, from Allentown, Pa.

But possibly the biggest gleam in Pittards eye is Shortstop Herbie Weaver, ex-Boys High ace and member last season of the Dortch Bakery nine which won the city amateur championship and went on to Youngstown, Ohio, to almost win the national title.

At second base there is Bill Crabbe from Steubenville, Ohio, who is quite a basketball performer, too.

At third there is Pat Smith, from Richmond Academy in Augusta, and anywhere in the infield and on the pitchers' mound and behind the plate if he should be so called is Dick Harvin, all-round athlete from Manning, S. C.

Harvin shone brightly during the past football season as an end and grid predictors see all-something-or-other honors for him on the football field before he leaves Tech.

The freshman team at Tech this year will be the first yearling team at the Flats since 1941, and they will play an independent schedule to be arranged as the season progresses. They will meet local high school, amateur nines and possible some junior colleges in this vicinity, Pittard says.

Murphy, Decatur Win in GIAA As Marist Loses to Lanier

By CHARLIE ROBERTS,
Constitution Sports Writer

SAVANNAH, March 4—Murphy and Decatur High, District Three and Four champions, throttled Smith High, of Atlanta, and Richmond Academy, of Augusta, in two torrid, thrill-packed engagements at Savannah High gym Thursday afternoon in the opening round of the twenty-seventh annual GIAA Tournament and will match baskets against one another in the semifinals at 8 o'clock Friday night.

Claude Kirkpatrick's Bulldogs took any early lead over Shirley Watkins' boys and fought off a late Smith rally to triumph, 34-33. Murphy and the Musketeers were hitting the baskets at a torrid pace before Buck Bradberry's six last-quarter points settled the issue in favor of Joel Eaves' Eagles, 47-41.

Third Atlanta entry in the tourney, Marist College, took a sound 47-to-26 drubbing from Lanier, favorites to cop the title, in a night game. Lanier took the lead right at the start and built it up steadily, using reserves most of the last half.

Defending Champion Savannah High trounced Columbus, 44 to 37, in the other first round game.

So heated was the action in the Murphy-Richmond game that a flurry of fists sent Bradberry, who was high point man for the game with 18 counters, and Richmond's Billy beale to the sidelines. The Eagles had led 15-8, 24-23 and 38-32 at the various quarters but the swift pace saw the lead change hands six times and the score tied twice in the third quarter alone.

The Eagles won only with great clutch play by Sub Joe Willingham, who had to stay in there all through the last quarter after Bill Floyd, ace center, fouled out. The floor play of Milford Bennett, who controlled both backboards, Marion Bond and "Rah Rah" Thomason, was one of the best turned in this year, and it took one of the Eagles' best performances to win.

Walter Daley, who had 11 counters, and Dick Weathers, with 10, were by far the best Muskateer performers.

Decatur, paced by Jim Umbricht and Lawrence Thompson, led Smith 8-3, 17-14 and 27-23 at the quarter marks but had to fight off a desperation rally by the Smithies to win out. Umbricht hit for eight of his 15 points in the second quarter and Thompson for eight of his nine in the last half. Herb Mendel was high for Smith with nine. W. A. Skelton, voted the City's outstanding player, fouled out early in the third quarter after scoring eight points. Leon Tuck also got the referee's ax early in the fourth stanza. Decatur lost John Harper and Thompson the same way late in the game.

After Burton Clein's basket had put Smith ahead, 33-32, Courts Redford and Lawrence Thompson dunked foul shots to give Decatur its victory, Thompson chunking in the winning point with a minute and a half to go.

In the semi-finals Friday night, Decatur plays Murphy at 8 o'clock and Savannah takes on Lanier at

Lesnevich Risks Title Against Fox

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—Durable Gus Lesnevich, the missing link in Billy Fox's knockout string, gives the Philadelphia challenger another shot at his light heavyweight title Friday.

Only once in 51 fights has Fox failed to stop an opponent. That once was Feb. 28, 1947, when he was flattened by Lesnevich in the 10th round of a championship bout.

Events since have not convinced the boxing mob that the 22-year-old kayo artist will do better. Granted he has belted over seven more men, including Jake Lamotta in an eyebrow-raising performance that prompted an investigation. But Gus has shown no signs of slipping.

BELIEVES LOUIS WEIGHS 240

Braddock Thinks Joe Has Gone Way Back

By GRANTLAND RICE.
North American Newspaper Alliance

LOS ANGELES, March 4—We ran across Jim Braddock the other day and it was only natural that comment should turn to the Louis-Walcott party in June.

"It will be 11 years, almost to a day, since Louis took away my crown," Braddock said. "I mean when he meets Walcott in June. It's longer ago than I thought it was. It's a long time for a fellow to wear that crown. Most of the time the crown wears you out."

I asked Big Jim—now around 240 pounds in weight—what he thought of Louis' methods of getting ready for the June show.

Braddock agreed with Dempsey. "I don't think much of it," Jim said. "Louis found back in December that he had slipped far more than anyone believed. He can never be like he used to be, but he at least had the chance to get part of his old form back by starting work at a much earlier date."

Both Braddock and Dempsey were dead sure that Louis was around 240 pounds, instead of the 220 or 225 named.

"I weigh 240 pounds," Braddock said, " and I know Louis is heavier than I am."

"I weigh 220," Dempsey told me, "and I'd say Louis was more than 20 pounds heavier. Look at his face and neck."

"Eleven years at the top is a long time to be there," Braddock said. "Louis deserves a lot of credit for taking care of himself almost that long. I know there wasn't much to beat, but Joe took pretty good care of himself for nearly 10 years.

"It's only in the last year that he has let himself go and he can get to be a fat man pretty quick, if he already isn't one. I notice one of the features of his English trip wasn't the fighters he was to box—but those 300 steaks. You can do a lot of sparring with steaks and not lose much weight.

"Walcott has a good break. I wish I could have met the Louis of today, eleven years ago. We had a pretty good scrap, as it was. For a while, anyway. And Louis then was lean, hard and fast with those fists. He was only 23 years old. Quite a gap between 23 and 34, especially for a fellow who likes to eat and live well.

"Walcott may be no great fighter," Braddock said, "but he is pretty smart, crafty, and game. He knows his business. And he has been fighting while Louis has been loafing for the bigger part of six years. Louis was doing nothing at the time he needed the most work."

AMERICANS DEADLY WITHIN 100 YARDS OF GREEN—LOCKE

MIAMI, Fla., March 4—(AP) Bobby Locke, the South African golfer, says American golfers are more deadly within 100 yards of the greens, "and that's where they top the British players."

"Americans really shine on approach shots and in putting," he continued. "They are better putters than the British."

Reminded that he was quite a putter, he said, "Well, I've made my share of putts. My old putter plays a sweet tune at times. But I've missed some, too."

Locke is here to play in the $10,000 Miami International Four-Ball Tournament which opens Saturday. He is paired with Lloyd Mangrum, the year's leading money winner to date.
